Not just another Saturday

Antioch hosts a dizzying array of activities on a mild, autumn day

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Watching homecoming dancers in their evening gowns roll orange bowling balls into strobe-lit fog as The Presidents of the United States sing through a digital-clear sound system, it was hard to anticipate that the German-Americans at the edge of town would be equally happy with Samuel Adams and the Austrian Trio Grande playing their German hit parade.

And, anyway, who would have thought that a 2-year old in small town Antioch on a Saturday night would truly appreciate the Harley Davidson 1200 Sportster chopper his folks copped for him at the Rotary pork chop barbecue and auction.

It was near midnight at the end of homecoming week, but much of what had gone on all day reflected hopes for the future.

For such a small town on Saturday, Sept. 27, there was almost too much to do for any age group: the parade, a community dinner, the play, glow bowling, and dancing beyond midnight.

7 a.m.

At 7 a.m., Dennis Andre picked out a suitable paint brush and put his first line of paint on the first building south of Antioch Village Hall. Andre was there to maintain the building because people believed there was a future for it.

For all the dying small towns in America, there are few signs of it in the Village of Antioch. Andre had painted buildings on Main Street all summer long. Antioch building owners were taking care of business, and new places were opening.

9:15 a.m.

Rae Seelos and Deyana Anderson were hosting a grand opening for Anderson Interiors at 959 Main Street. They will do commercial flooring. Hansco International was opening at the same location to do import-export business. At that hour their offices were crowded with Mayor Marilyn Shineflug, Township Supervisor Tim Osmond, village staff, and Chamber of Commerce members.

9:45 a.m.

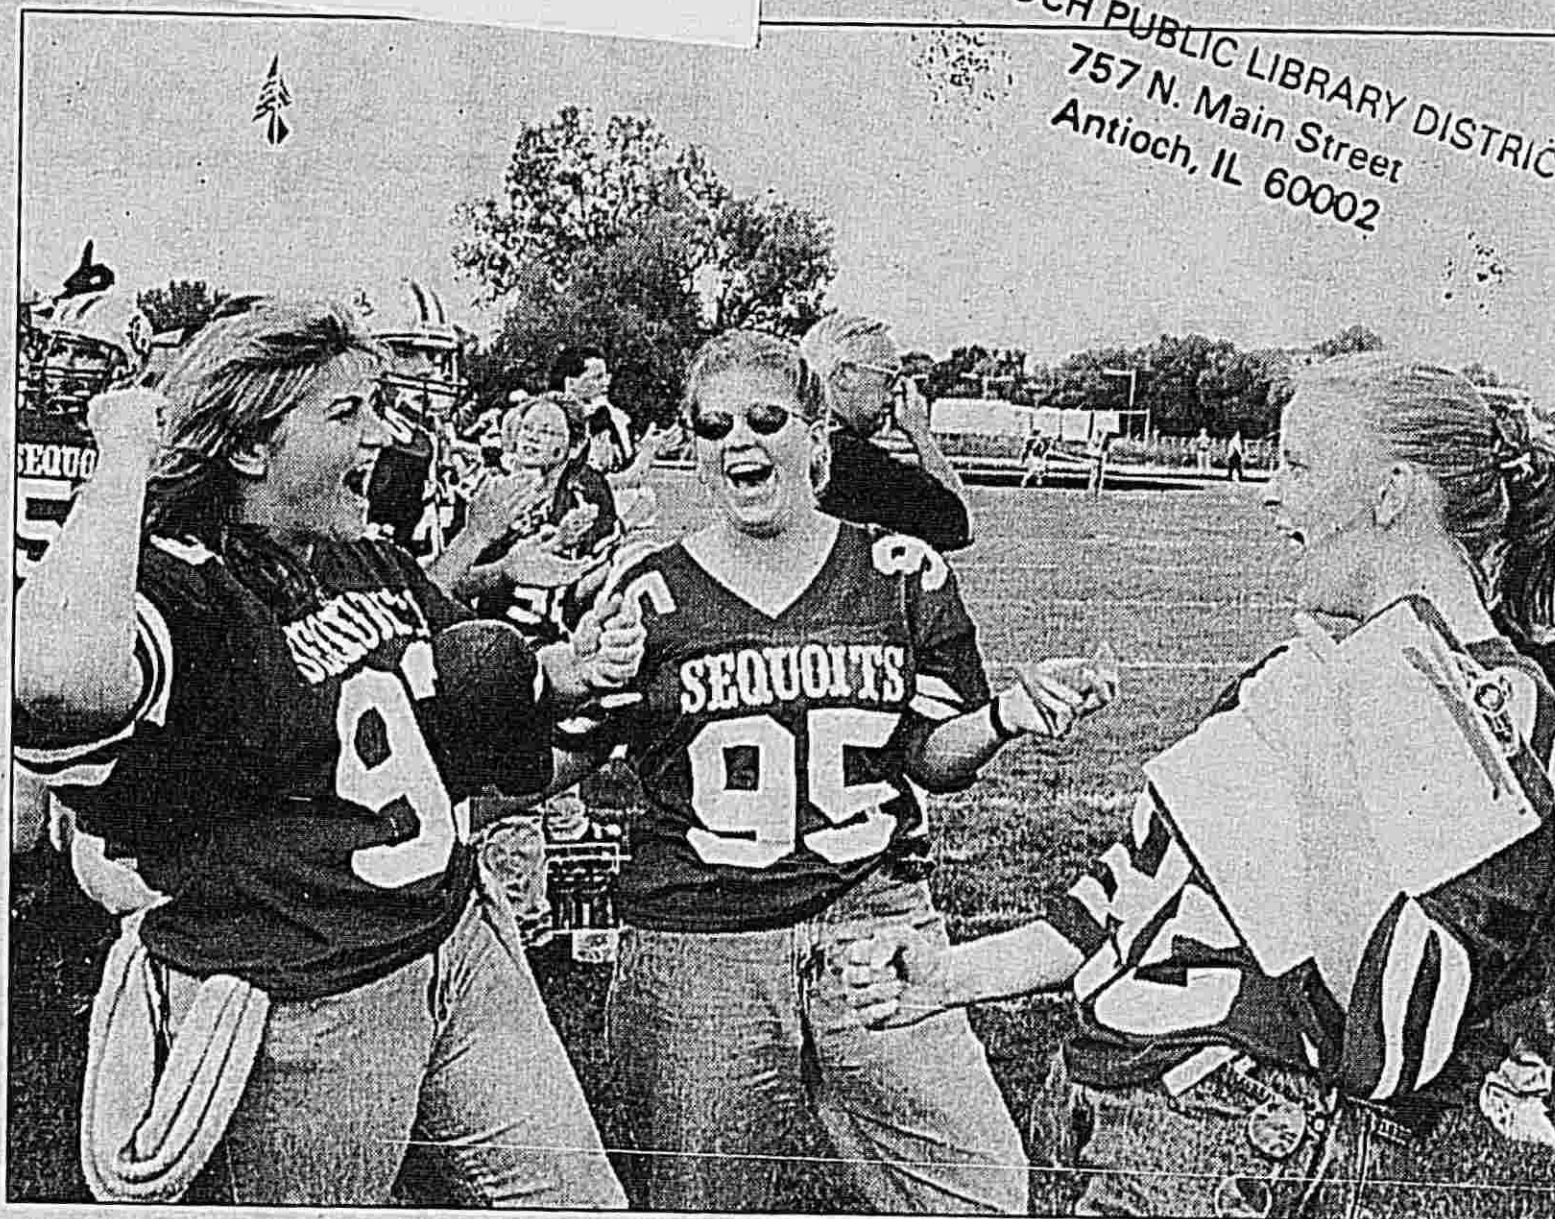

Sharon and Don Blackman own Laursen and Blackman Windows and Doors at 291 Margate, facing on Route 83. They hosted a dozen ribbon cutters with a huge cake and warm hospitality. Trustees Dorothy A. Larson, Mabel Lou Weber, Taso Maravelas were still in the traveling delegation to welcome them, as were people such as the Chamber's Second Vice-President, Dee Dee Palmer.

10 a.m.

As the Antioch Community High School Homecoming Parade stepped from the parking lot tarmac onto Main Street, the village and chamber officials hit the road for Antioch Bowling Lanes, Inc.

State of the art AMF bowling equipment has transformed the interior of the building as well as the bowling experience. Antioch Trustee Wayne Foresta took it all in and said, "The improvement is dramatic." The changes are to the bowling experience, not the building itself. Another ribbon is cut and a long-time Antioch business transforms itself into the next century.

Murder shocks community

Suspect caught, investigation goes to Major Crimes Task Force

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

For many area hikers, it will be a while before they can enjoy the beauty of McDonald Woods again, without thinking of the tragedy connected to the popular forest preserve.

The forest preserve harbored a young homeless man who has been charged with the brutal murder of Lindenhurst resident Gertrude Eichner, 62, in the early morning hours of Sunday, Sept. 28. According to police reports, she was stabbed more than 60 times in the head and neck with scissors. It was the first murder in Lindenhurst in more than 25 years.

Charged with first-degree murder is William T. Conner, 18, who has lived in the Antioch area, but was currently living nearby in McDonald Woods, a 296-acre Lake County Forest Preserve.

According to Lindenhurst Chief of Police Jack McKeever, the suspect was interviewed by investigators and made a spontaneous statement of possible complicity in the homicide. Conner allegedly told investigators, "I'm the person you're looking for and I did everything."

Responding to a Lindenhurst Police Department request for assistance were the Lake Villa Police Department, Fox Lake Police Department, Antioch Police Department, Lake County Sheriff's Department, and Illinois State Police. Initial investigation for a suspect was assisted by K-9 units and State Police Air-One Helicopter investigators.

The murder investigation initiated by the Lindenhurst Police Department has been turned over to the Lake County Major Crimes Task Force. The Task Force assigned 17 criminal investigators and several evidence technicians to the crime scene.

According to McKeever, the stated motivation for entering the house was to steal Eichner's automobile. Details of the case are still unfolding. For more information on this tragedy, see page C1.

SATURDAY: Antioch hosts a dizzying array of activities on autumn day

10:30 a.m.

On Main Street the parade of floats, bands, and marchers reaches Orchard and Main Street. All along the route, families watch, wave, and wear smiles.

Candy is tossed. Kids grab SweetTarts and wrapped Butter and Cream candies from the pavement. Stubbles the Clown rolls by on the Class of 1967 flatbed truck. The Antioch Jazz Band appears.

Dennis Andre continues to paint. After the parade passes, he is painting the door frame on a village building.

1 p.m.

The Antioch Community High School varsity football team takes on Warren Township High School's team and makes them worry about and fight for every point before giving up the game at 7 to 6. Games do not always work out. The stands are packed. Sequoit Pride is selling food faster than they can cook it. One of the cooks, Doug Scopel said, "Best selling day in the last couple of years. Absolutely. It's very seldom we run out of food. We raised a lot of money for the Sequoit Pride treasure chest."

Karen Chilcote and Karol Hintz are selling polo shirts, T-shirts, sweatshirts, caps, plates, and afghans from a Sequoit Pride merchandise table. There are piles of rich colors and soft fabrics spilling into one another for every person's size and shape. It is fund-raising as a sumptuous feast of clothing styles.

By half-time, Elaine Weber and Noreen Johnson have gotten the flags for the color guard unit in place at the edge of the field. During the Marching Sequoits band performance, the flags will be used by the color guard to accent a cymbal clash or to create a shimmering, iridescent, turquoise backdrop for the climactic moments of the first public presentation of the Marching Sequoits' competition performance.

At the end of the half-time show, ACHS student Sara Cashmore arrives in the fan stands to retrieve her 35mm camera. She's dressed for the Pom Pon team, but she has just finished playing clarinet in the Marching Sequoits. "I've got to go take pictures for the yearbook," she said.

3 p.m.

Kevin Lyons is calmly walking around Father Hanley Hall at St. Peters Catholic Church waiting for Fay's Pork Chop Bar-B-Que from Waterman, Illinois to show up. The crew to cook has not yet arrived, and he has many coming for dinner and an auction. Lyons is in-charge of the event, and he has gotten it put together up to the point where Rotary needs pork chops to feed people. He has had a lot of helping getting it set up. "We couldn't do it without the wives," Lyons said.

3:35 p.m.

The pork chop cookers arrive. Meanwhile, Antioch resident Regina Depre is alone at the rose garden around the old village pump in the front yard of the Lakes Region Historical Society building. She is clipping-off old roses to encourage new buds to bloom. Of her name, she said, "My name is French, but I'm a thousand times German." She is not happy that she will miss the German-American Oktoberfest that night.

4:21 p.m.

Andre is painting the trim on the north windows of village hall. He says he will quit for the day around 5 o'clock. He notes that the white wood siding is now an adobe red brick color. He's painted part of the town hall red.

Ken Smouse is across the street facing the second performance of his "Blithe Spirit" production at the PM&L Theatre. He said, "The opening night was very exciting and went off extremely well." He thinks his second night will be equally good, and he is at the theater early to make sure all is ready for his audience. He liked the standing ovation they gave his performers Friday night.

Through the evening, the home coming dance unfolds at the ACHS Gymnasium. The theme this year is "Once Upon a Dream," and for some couples who obtained early tickets, their way through the commons area is decorated with five-point stars with silver tails similar to the Rotary ceiling balloons across town. The stars contain the names of couples.

11 p.m.

The Antioch Rotary Club was cleaning up their hall and stacking chairs and tables. All auction items were gone. Matt Tabar had presented the Antioch Rotary Club Community Recognition Award to John Ruffin, a member of the Antioch Lion's Club. The Rotary motorcycle was raffled off. A child in a family that bought multiple $50 tickets for all in the family won the cycle.

An hour before midnight, the evening seemed young at Antioch Bowling Lanes. The morning's grand opening ceremony was long past and a new bowling experience was in full throat. All across the lanes, translucent, orange, blue and purple balls rolled under fog into a field of erratic lights and pin-point laser spins to hit shimmering black light lit pins. Heather Bain was operating the sound system. Tonight her music was Buck O Nine singing "Peach Fish" and Prodigy singing "Breathe" and "Firestarter." For the older adults, a Steely Dan flashback could be heard.

11:30 p.m.

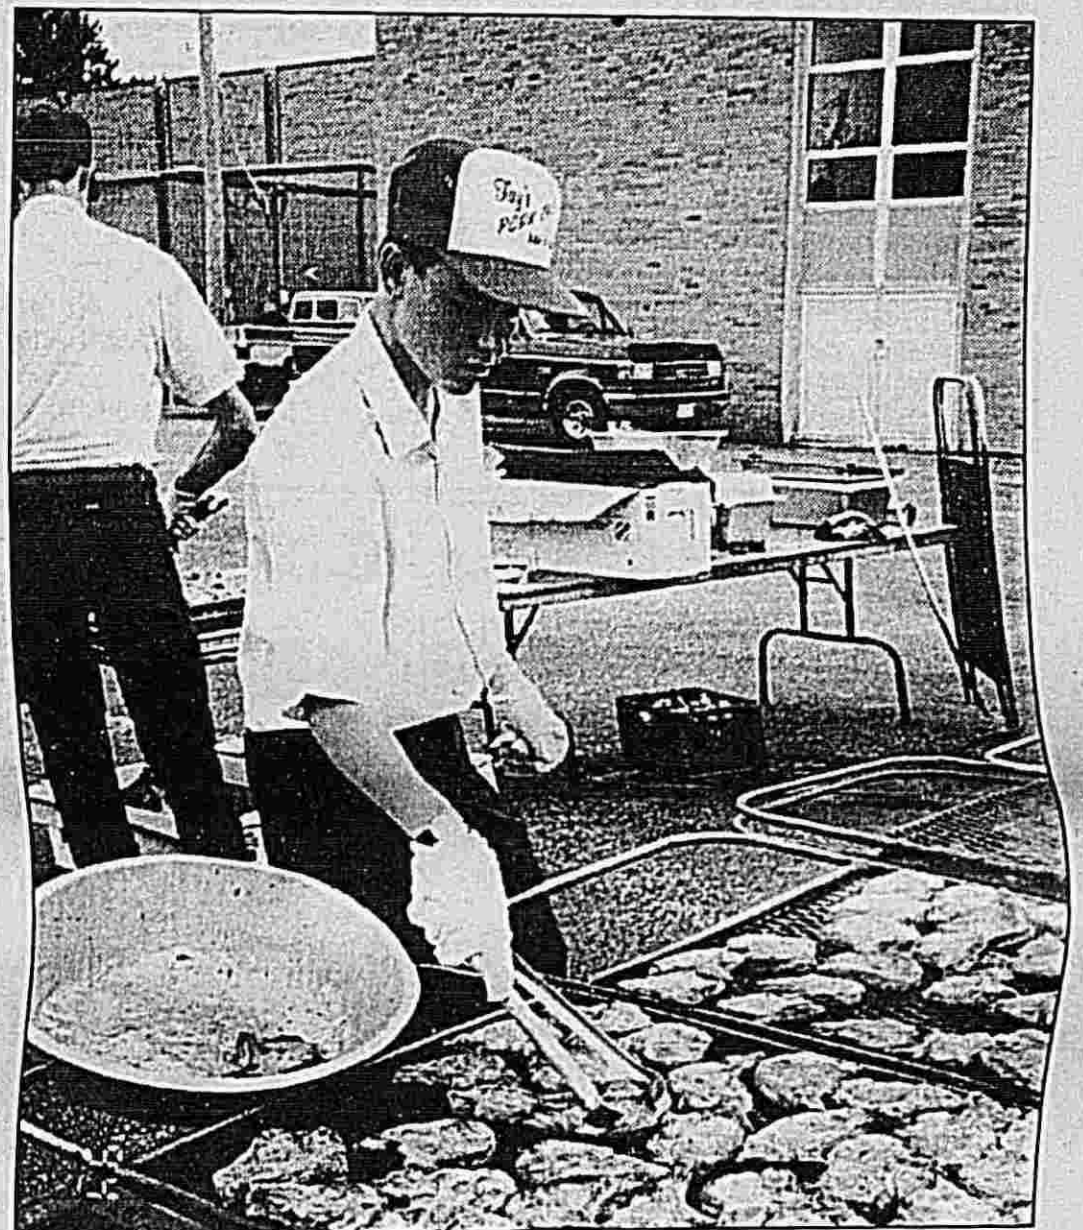

ACHS student Michele Swanson went directly from the homecoming dance to the bowling lanes with some friends. She said of the dance at the school, "It was awesome. It was bigger. It was funner. The DJ was cool. I had a great time with my boyfriend Greg Justice." She was bowling in her evening gown and she looked happy.

Across town, Nicole Abbate arrived at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall in her black evening dress from her homecoming dance for the German-American Club of Antioch's 18th Annual Oktoberfest. As for dancing at Oktoberfest, "This is O.K. except for the fact that my feet hurt." And why not? She had already been dancing for five hours.

Hans Gebavi, of the German Cultural Center in Lake Villa, said of his evening, "It was beautiful." He had joined a roomful of people to listen to music, to eat salt sticks, veal brats, Thuringer sausage, and Bienenstich, and to enjoy Berghoff Oktober Fest Beer and Samuel Adams Oktober Fest Special Brew. It was a night to socialize and be with friends.

12 a.m.

People were still dancing in Antioch.

New waterway director wants to build tourism on the Chain

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

Bringing tourism back to the Chain O'Lakes is the mission of the newest director of the Fox Waterway Agency.

Melonnice Hartl, a life-long resident of the Chain O' Lakes area, has been appointed to fill the vacancy of Ron Baker on the waterway board.

Hartl and her husband, John Hartl, are owners of C. J. Smith Resort in Antioch. The Hartl's bought the business from her parents 13 years ago. C. J. Smith Resort was founded by the Smith family in 1929.

Hartl became involved with the Waterway Agency a couple of years ago while serving on a business committee at the suggestion of then director Karen Kabbes.

"Karen got me involved with the waterway and its mandate to increase tourism," Hartl said, who has also worked with the Antioch Chamber of Commerce to promote waterway businesses.

"I think it is important to promote tourism on the Chain, that is what this area has always been known for," Hartl said. "There are many people in Lake County who aren't aware of what the Chain has to offer."

Hartl plans to begin working immediately on producing a guide to the Chain of Lakes. She envisions a comprehensive guide that would provide safety rules, information on businesses and restaurants and regulations on fishing and boating.

"I think it is something you would have to update yearly," Hartl said. "We need something to give visitors that would show them where to go to get what they need when visiting the area."

Hartl also believes the Waterway should have an informational booth on the Chain.

"I think it would be great to have something in the Waterway office," Hartl said. "There is plenty of room there and it could be reached by boat or car."

Hartl realizes some of these ideas are not popular with area residents.

"The Chain of Lakes has always been a tourist area," Hartl said. "That is how we survive."

The Hartls lives in Antioch and have three daughters. Hartl's term will expire in April 1999.

Hartl: Will produce guide to Chain

Child safety stickers distributed Oct. 6

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

A group of private and public volunteer groups and public sector agencies has come together to distribute two special child safety stickers. The stickers alert emergency rescue personnel to the presence and identity of a child.

The We Care for Kids window decals and CHAD stickers will be distributed on Oct. 6 by several local businesses. The stickers will also be available from child care centers and at schools in the township.

Decals also will be available for parents from organizations and at public events later in the month.

CHAD is an acronym for Children Have An iDentity. It refers to a program to affix child identification information to the right corner under the cushion or center back of a child safety seat. Information on the sticker guides emergency medical personnel to parents if no one else is able to identify the child.

CHAD sticker distribution is a cooperative project by the Antioch Junior Woman's Club, the Antioch Rescue Squad, the Antioch Fire Department, the Antioch Police Department, and the North Lake County Emergency Medical Services System.

Vollmer urges community-based education change

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Jamie Vollmer spoke to large and small gatherings in the District 117 area Sept. 29 about the need for area residents to be involved in the creation of a school system that better meets the future of their children.

He spoke to a few hundred community residents in the course of the day, met with school educators, and nudged into greater public view concerned residents and educators who want to talk about what and how education should work in local schools.

Vollmer is president of the Local Control Project in Fairfield, Iowa. The project helps school districts encourage educators and community residents to discuss the future of local school systems. The intent is to achieve community-based understanding of the changes and thereby obtain community support for school improvement activities.

The earliest public meeting on Monday with Vollmer was a luncheon for invited guests at the Antioch Golf Club. Through the afternoon, he met with educators in smaller groups. The most widely promoted public event was an evening speech at Antioch Community High School's auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

ACHS District Board President Phillip A. Delany expressed optimism about the community atmosphere within which Vollmer's visit took place. "The reality, that we are discussing change, that we are implementing technology, that our staffs are working jointly, that 130-plus people did meet on a 'Monday Night Football' evening, suggests that we as a community see a good common path," he said. Random comments by people who heard Vollmer speak Monday evening suggest that Delany's view is shared by others.

Vollmer spoke without notes for more than 90 minutes. His historical references, his statistical inserts, his humorous asides combined to hold audience attention long after he acknowledged that some had reason to leave and return home. He spoke simply into a microphone with no visual aides. As audience member Pete James said, "I think it is important to note that Mr. Vollmer did not prescribe any specific 'solution' but held several ideas up as valid alternatives for consideration."

Katherine Morgan, mother of three children in District 34, welcomes the type of conversation about education that Vollmer suggests. "Our area schools need to think about and facilitate change in the ways our children are being taught. The needs our children face as adults have greatly changed from the needs we had as children and high school graduates," she commented after the meeting.

Another parent, Cindy Rogers, suggested that there is more to the matter of educational improvement than the schools. There are things going on within the family too. Another factor is the growth of information. Roger Shule reacted to the issue of change with a reference to that. "I think we need to find the most effective means to deliver information to our students. One of the difficulties is that the body of information to deliver changes almost faster than we can determine the most effective delivery system."

The sentiment to obtain greater citizen input into the educational policy process is present among some who heard Vollmer talk. District 117 Board President Delany is direct in his openness. "The communities of Antioch, Lake Villa, and Lindenhurst should continue the discussions that they now have as to what the future of all our schools will be. I would encourage an open forum to discuss improvements to the school systems. I would support a series of public meetings to hear ideas and beliefs as to what our children should learn."

Fatal crash ruled accident

The fatal accident which claimed three lives on a dark stretch of Hutchins Road on a Saturday night was an accidental death in all three cases.

That was the verdict delivered by the six-person Lake County Coroner's Inquest jury, Sept. 24. Homicide, suicide, accidental or unknown cause were the options. The verdict accidental death was given for all three deceased persons.

The fatal crash claimed the lives of Kristen Pichler, age 16, of Gurnee; Shannon Schwarz, age 17 of Gurnee; and Brian Steffenhagen, age 33, of Gages Lake. James Oeschle, age 33, of Lindenhurst, is recovering from injuries sustained in the Aug. 16 crash.

"The weather was a factor; it had just rained and there was new asphalt on the road. They (Pichler) passed in a no-passing lane. There was testimony that there were signs that there would be no passing for four miles, but it was not striped,"

Barbara Richardson, Lake County coroner, said.

Richardson said testimony at the inquest revealed there were no drugs or alcohol in Pichler's body.

"Pichler was a new driver who had just gotten her license. We see it over and over again," Richardson said.

The Oeschle and Steffenhagen families were both represented at the inquest. Kim Oeschle, Jamie's wife, told those gathered that Jamie is in therapy, but back home.

Antioch woman indicted for adoption scam

The Lake County Grand Jury indicted a 37 year old Antioch woman who allegedly told a private adoption agency she was pregnant to cheat the agency and prospective adoptive parents out of thousands of dollars, Attorney General Jim Ryan announced.

In a two count indictment, Cynthia Sue Lloyd, 480 North Ave., was charged with two counts of felony theft by deception, a Class 3 felony punishable by up to five years in prison. Lloyd, who was originally charged and arrested on Sept. 12, is currently in the Lake County jail on a $25,000 bond and faces an Oct. 1 arraignment before Lake County Circuit Court Judge Stephen Walter. Today's indictments supersede the original charges.

The case is being prosecuted by the Attorney General's office with the assistance of Lake County State's Attorney Mike Waller.

"If these allegations are proven, this woman deplorably preyed on parents who wanted to give a child a secure home and an adoption agency that wanted to forge such a union," Attorney General Ryan said.

The Lake County Sheriff's Office began an investigation in April following a complaint from a couple who had agreed to adopt the child Lloyd said she was carrying. According to the investigation, the defendant told a Chicago adoption agency that she was pregnant and wished to give up the child. She reportedly produced a urine test to confirm her condition. The agency then contacted an organization that puts prospective adoptive parents in touch with pregnant women. The prospective parents met Lloyd and agreed to reimburse the agency for some of Lloyd's expenses until the child was born, which Lloyd allegedly said would be in early March. Lloyd allegedly received nearly $2,500 from one agency and $1,100 from the other.

The couple called the Sheriff's Office in April when they could not locate the defendant. Lloyd, whose medical records indicate had a hysterectomy prior to 1990, apparently faked the pregnancy with the aid of a pregnant woman's urine sample.

State's Attorney Waller, who is assisting in the prosecution of the case, asked for the assistance of the Attorney General's Dept. of Investigations because the investigation extended beyond Lake County.

The public is reminded that criminal defendants are innocent unless the government is able to prove its charges in court beyond a reasonable doubt.

Marching Sequoits ready for new season

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Marching Sequoits have stepped into a new season of competition and entertainment. Their first appearance was at Lindenfest, in August, in Lindenhurst. The most recent band appearance was at the homecoming football game, Sept. 27, at Antioch Community High School.

The return is also marked by the appearance of band sweatshirts and polo-shirts for sale.

The Lindenfest Parade was the first public appearance of the Marching Sequoits for the year after their summer band camp at St. Johns Academy in Delafield, Wis.

Their first band competition will be Oct. 4 at the Burlington Invitational Marching Band Contest in Burlington, Wis. "This is the first time our band is going back to Burlington," said Sheri Fries of the ACHS Music Parents Association, AMPS. The Burlington band competition had been discontinued for a few years.

The sweatshirts and polo-shirts are not a fund-raising project for the band. These are good quality shirts with an attractive design selected by the band. The sweatshirt's design may appeal more to younger people and the polo-shirt design to adults, said Fries. Orders for the shirts can be placed with Choir Copresident Ellen Keown at 847-356-9095.

A second band competition is Saturday, Oct. 11 at the Stagg High School Marching Band Jamboree in south suburban Palos Hills.

On Sunday, Oct. 12, the Marching Sequoits will be at the Marengo Settler's Days in McHenry County for both marching in a parade and for a competition event.

The Marching Sequoits return to Franklin Park as defending champions. "Last year the band had first place at Franklin Park and we're hoping to defend that title," said Fries. Franklin Park Fall Fest is on Sunday, Oct. 19 at East Leyden High School.

The Marching Sequoits have competition routines and regular band songs they play. Fries said there are songs they rehearse with intricate marching for the competitions. "They've got four to six major songs they play," she said. Band practice is the first hour of school every day. On Tuesday nights, they play for two hours.

Marching Sequoits step out into a new season at Lindenfest in August. Band members Jenny Rosen, left, and Noreen Johnson hold a banner that announces the band's approach.

The Antioch Community High School Student Assistant Program presents its sixth Annual Peddler's Alley Craft Fair Saturday, Oct. 4, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"I think this will be one of the biggest ones," said Georgia Kilman, one of the organizers for publicity on the event. "We've attracted probably over 50 crafters." Only 40 crafters were expected a few weeks before the event.

"We're going to be in the Commons and in the Annex," she said. There will be signs in the building to direct people to the Commons and Annex area, near the gymnasium.

She attributes the strong response to the show by crafters in part to the reputation of the show. "People want to do crafts," she also said. There are all types of crafts for sale from woodcrafts to paintings. "It's a wide variety."

Food will be available at the fair. There is a bake sale.

Each crafter will contribute an item to be raffled during the course of the seven-hour event. People need not be present to win.

We could have never done it without you

We all have those times in our lives that we trod through wondering when some sense of normalcy will return to our daily routine. The entire month of September was just that for the Pringle/Schreiber/Ladin clan. When his doctor told us we had to take daddy to the hospital because he had a stomach ache for three weeks, we never dreamed that we wouldn't be able to bring him back home again for 27 days.

For a man who is 75 years old, it is amazing that he has never been sick, but boy, when he does something—he does it big. It took 17 days just to reach a diagnosis, and with each test or scan or x-ray, more and more things were discovered, more and more problems were detected.

But Normie's spirits remained bright, his mood was generally favorable and for a man who will eat just about anything—even he began to hate hospital food. But Normie's home now and for this we are very, very grateful.

None of us could have gotten through the ordeal without the kindness, generosity, understanding and love from all our friends, relatives and co-workers.

We would like to send a most heartfelt, generous thank-you to all of you who pitched in and watched the kids, called with words of encouragement, sent inspirational, reassuring cards, and last, but certainly not least, all of your many, many prayers.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

Together, with a lot of help from some very fine doctors and nurses, we pulled through the crisis that bore down on us like a summer tornado leaving destruction and debris in our paths. It always seemed when the mood reached the lowest or the news was the bleakest, we would return home only to find a "you're not in this alone" kind of card in the mailbox, or a "call me if there is anything I can do" message on our answering machine. It's times like these that we are all slapped in the face with our own vulnerability. It is with great joy in our hearts, that we are able to say, Normie is on the road to recovery.

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Home runs for Holly a huge hit

Last Sunday was the Lakeland Charity Softball game, "Home runs for Holly," which benefited the Rathunde family of Round Lake Beach. Many of you have read about it in my column, and there was a great turnout Sunday as the Lakeland All-Stars battled the WXLK/WKRS All-Stars at Softball City.

Now, yes, WXLK beat your Lakeland All-Stars 12-6, but the $1,500 raised for the Rathunde family made the whole thing worth it.

Your beloved sports editor did not embarrass himself, as many had speculated. In limited action, I made two-straight inning-ending putouts, including a pop-fly that most people expected me to drop. At the plate, I had one at-bat and hit a fly-out to short left field—at least I didn't strikeout.

If I were to pick an MVP for Lakeland, it would have to be our own Jason King, who covers Round Lake and Libertyville for us, as he went 2-2 on the day and scored a run in our seventh-inning rally.

Prior to the game we all had a special treat, as two professional softball players, who were in town for a tournament, competed in a home run contest to raise more money for the Rathundes. Jeff Ross, of Burlington, N.C., and Paul Stanley, of Union Town, P.A., hit some huge blasts, one clearing the centerfield lightpost.

We appreciate the support of our charity events from all of the Lakeland readers, and we look forward to our next event, whatever and whenever it may be.

David Ogrin, a Waukegan native and professional golfer, will be the guest speaker at the College of Lake County's Ninth Annual Keith Ryan Scholarship Fund and Sports Banquet, Oct. 23 at the Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth. Proceeds from this benefit will help raise funds for a $1,000 scholarship established at CLC in memory of Keith Ryan, a well-known Lake County sportscaster who died of cancer in 1989.

Homecoming hopes blocked

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

It is an expected cheer in many cases whenever a field goal or extra point is attempted.

"Block that kick," chant those favoring the defense shout. Little did Warren High fans know that blocking kicks would be one of the aspects the Blue Devils would handle best in a 7-6 win over Antioch.

Pretty, this one wasn't. A 48-yard interception return by Andy White was the lone score Warren needed. Brett Hill's extra point was deciding point.

Shane Knarr blocked an extra point and Jason Foster a late-second field goal try for a two-win Warren win streak.

"I just wanted to block it. I just got my hands up," said Knarr, a junior.

His block came after Brandon Pohleber's TD run had brought the Sequoits to within a point after a short drive.

Knarr's block came from a burst from the middle of the line. Foster's effort came from end.

"I thought I was going to have it. We practice that all the time, 20 times. We knew they had a slow snap, so I was hoping I could get there," said Foster.

Foster, a junior, is the cousin of former Warren hoops star Maurice. The two did not play football much as both pursued their top sports interests as youths.

"It was definitely a defensive game. We are pulling together as a family," said White.

"White is a pretty solid player. We need to get better in some areas, but we are getting the breaks now," said WTHS coach Dave Mohapp.

Assistant coach Rocco Oddo prepares the WTHS special teams.

Antioch sophomore running back Quinn Gooch races through the Warren defense as he looks for more yards in Antioch's 7-6 loss to the Blue Devils. Antioch plays at North Chicago Saturday at 1:00 p.m.—Photo by Steve Young Warren lost its first three games, the last on a missed extra point. Since, WTHS has won two games involving homecomings for a 2-3 mark, 2-1 NSC.

Neither team could get much offense going as defenses rose to the occasion in a scoreless first half. The Warren rushing game was held under 40 yards and QB Mike Brandow had a tough day throwing.

ACHS missed on two fourth down tries in the first half.

White's interception of ACHS sophomore quarterback Don Lackey came on the third play of the third quarter. Lackey is subbing for Dave Gooch, ACHS's all-NSC QB who is out for the year with a knee injury.

A shanked punt gave ACHS only 30 yards to go to tie the game. Spiller, a junior, took care of the final three yards.

But then Knarr bolted over the battle of the line of scrimmage and blocked Adam Miller's kick.

Warren tried to put this one away with one more score early in the fourth. But Quinn Gooch intercepted a pass in the end zone intended for Foster.

Neither team could take advantage of its next possession, but a fourth and five miss on a sack for a loss by Brad Marchildon gave ACHS a chance with five minutes left and 73 yards to go.

Led by Pohleber and Spiller and a key third and nine play, Antioch marched down the field. The clock and the Blue Devils were the enemies. After two short gains, a field goal try from 31 yards out was snuffed by Foster.

Warren plays in its third Homecoming game in as many weeks, this time Zion away Oct. 3.

ACHS is at winless North Chicago Oct. 4.

Warren spikers win in new gym

It may have taken Warren's volleyball team some time to get used to the new surroundings of the gym at the Almond Road school.

But once they did, they dominated Antioch and all but one team they played at their own tournament.

Warren downed Antioch 15-9, 15-5 to remain unbeaten in the North Suburban Conference. The Blue Devils' win was their 17th straight. The streak continued until a 15-6, 15-5 loss to Kenosha Tremper, but Warren rallied to win its tourney for a 21-1 mark.

lead as Kim Wooster served out the last six points.

"We were a little nervous for our first game here with the new gym and everything. We had been working on our passing - it was a lot better," said senior Tracey Winn.

A large crowd filling much of the half of the seating available looked on as Warren won the league match in a little less than 60 minutes. Some carried signs and shouted support.

"Our fans were great. I hope we have them here every match," said senior Kathy Huntington.

"We were able to pick up the tempo in the second game. Angela Mirretti's passes were on," said WTHS coach Becky Belmont.

An even pace has been important to Warren's success to date, said Mirretti.

"We don't just have one star, which is nice," said Belmont.

April Peterson had 12 kills to lead the attack against Antioch.

Warren trailed 7-5 in the first game against Antioch but Winn steadied the effort and Warren gained the lead as Kim Wooster served out the last six points.

Antioch fell behind 9-0 before a mini-run in the second game as Andrea Rees served. Marci Miner of Warren put an end to that with a kill. Mirretti then finished off the second game, with two aces in the next five points.

Mirretti was in for a match against some off-season teammates when McHenry was Warren's second tournament foe.

Warren won the deciding third game 15-10. Warren won 15-8, lost 15-8 in the first two games. Mirretti plays on the Sky High club volleyball team which features several Warriors.

"It should not have gone three games. Last night our passing worked because we were more aggressive," said Mirretti.

Warren and Antioch clashed less than 24 hours after their conference match for the Warren tourney title. The Blue Devils, led again by Peterson, won 15-13, 14-16, 15-8.

ACHS linksters top Mundelein

Preparing for the defense of its North Suburban Conference title, Antioch High's boys golf team headed with a split in league matches.

Libertyville was too much in a 152-171 loss. Mike Nielsen and Shawn Hansen led the Sequoits with 42s.

The Sequoits then gained revenge for a close loss to last year with a 163-166 win. Nielsen was medalist with a "fantastic" 37, two over par, said coach Roger Alm.

Antioch finished 2-4 in the NSC, 7-4 overall.

ACHS competed in a tough tournament in Lake Bluff hosted by Lake Forest. John Logan had an 80, followed by Brian Haley's 83; Nielsen and Brett Cromeau's 85.

ACHS was defending league champs Wednesday at Steeple Chase Golf Course. Lake Forest came in with a 6-0 dual record this year.

Champs too much for lady Sequoits

Windy conditions and the defending state champs were too much for Antioch to overcome.

Lake Forest beat Antioch 175-203 at Lake Bluff in a wind and rain swept meet.

"We played well. We have been shooting around 200. It was a two club rainstorm," said ACHS coach Steve Wapon.

ACHS was led by Abby Clark with a 48. She was followed by Sara Groh's 49; a 51 by Veronica Pazanin and a 55 by Kristen Hungarland. The loss dropped ACHS to 9-5 in duals.

At the Barrington tournament, Antioch came home ninth of 16 teams with a 402.

Groh led the way with a 46-48, 94.

"She did a good job. She is trying to come to the next level and shoot 45s," said Wapon.

Hungarland had a 52-48, 100; Clark a 54-49 103; soph Brittany Cable a 48-58 106; junior Karen Drengher, in her first varsity competition, a 69-54 113.

Antioch ventures to Champaign for a tournament Oct. 4.

Vikings sweep McHenry at homecoming

The Antioch Vikings won four of four games over the McHenry Hornets at the Vikings 27th annual homecoming weekend. The Heavyweights won their 2nd League game 38-15. The Lightweights remained unbeaten with a 20-0 victory; The featherweights won their 2nd game of the season 28-6 and the Pee Wees handed McHenry their first loss of the season 37-6. The Antioch Saturday Featherweights shut out Lake Zurich 22-0.

Running backs Joe Finkelberg and Mike Wheeler each scored a pair of TD's and Dan Elfering added a 5th TD as the Heavyweights evened their season record at 2-2. Quarterback Scott Greenhill led the Viking offense that totaled 339 yards. The defense was led by Matt Green, Pete Siebert, and Scott Gerhke.

The Antioch Raider Featherweights won their second game of the season 28-6 over McHenry. Running back Jeff Cannella scored two TD's and Chris Pollack and Taylor Pechauer added a TD each as the Raiders overpowered McHenry on both sides of the football. Nick Nathan booted two extra points as the Raiders totaled 353 offensive yards. QB Luke Sezonov completed 6 of 9 passes including two completions to Steven George and Bobby Grubiak. The Raider defense was led by Brandon Ziemann, Nik Diddle, Pat Groggin, Jody Davis and Justin Carey.

The Raider offensive line of Milo Murray, Josh Paddock, Mike Ano, Chris Cabrera and Jim Larson opened large holes on 11 running plays.

The Viking Lightweights scored 30 points and totaled 425 offensive yards.

All in the first half in an easy 30-0 win over McHenry. Running back Brett Bairstow scored from 26 yards out and Matt Elliott went in from 50 yards out as part of the Viking rushing ground game. Then QB Trent Domel threw a pair of TD's to ends Eric Schultz and Jeff Welter. Jim Huspen kicked three extra points and returned a pair of punts for 83 yards in a fine offensive game. Excellent line blocking by Bill Merker, Eric Sesko, Chris Carlson, Jason Weigel, A.J. Basler and both Huspen and Schultz enabled Antioch to total over 350 yards rushing. The defense was led by Merker, Huspen, Mike DeVries, Elliott Bairstow, Chris Orocz, Beau Biller and Ian Lazeretti. Antioch hosts Warren in a battle of unbeaten teams in the Lightweight Division.

The Antioch Pee Wees won their second conference game and in the process—handed McHenry their first loss of the season in their crushing 37-6 victory. Running back Mike Kroephel scored three TD's and QB Ben Rozewicz scored three TD's as well in a simply awesome display of offense. Antioch totaled 434 yards—207 yards by Kroephel himself. John Hauser scored the lone extra point for Antioch. Tyler Bynum intercepted a pass and Brando Geweke recovered a fumble. The defense which shut out McHenry was led by Justin Dee, Geweke, Bynum, Grant Comstock, Paul Siebert, Ty Sitter and Lee Jensen.

The Viking Saturday Feather-weights won their fourth game of the season. A 22-0 shutout over Lake Zurich. Viking touchdowns were scored by running back Scooter Hooks scored a TD on a 59 yard run, quarterback Tony Weyenberg tossed a TD pass to end Jeff Grove, and Andrew Homer scored on a 65 yard run. Weyenberg had three QB sacks and the Vikings got great defensive games from Chris Klemko, David Schwenn, and Robert Murrin, both playing aggressive games.

U-19 Power tie Chargers

The Lindenhurst Power and Crystal Lake Chargers, the two undefeated teams in their division, remain in a first place tie after they played to a 2-2 tie in their recent IWSL match-up.

The Power scored first when Jamie Wismer saw the Charger keeper roaming far from the net and lofted a shot over her head from 30 yards out. The Chargers then evened the score with the aid of a wind assisted ball that blew by the defense giving them a breakaway opportunity. Kristina Giangliorgi then put the Power back on top when she "nutmegged" the keeper after trapping her punt and sidestepping a defender to get off the shot. Crystal Lake then charged back to tie the game with 7 minutes left to play. The Power had one more excellent goal scoring opportunity, but a Charger defender deflected it away from just in front of the net. The Power is 3-0-1 in League Play, and next travels to Chicago to play the Chicago Attack.

U-10 Typhoon beat Lakers 2-0

In NISL League play the Lindenhurst Typhoon (Boys, U-10, NISL) defeated the Glen Ellyn Lakers 2-0. Typhoon center forward Kyle Kozuch put the Typhoon on the scoreboard in the first quarter off a beautiful cross by Danny Braun. Darren Nordstrom scored the second goal for the Typhoon off an Alex McKenzie shot by deflecting the ball past the Lakers goalie. The Typhoon controlled the game throughout, with the play of standouts Eric Voight at sweeper, Jason Moxley and Ian Hunter at half back, and goalies Darren Nordstrom, Kyle Kozuch, Luke Ksioszk, and Brett Carlson.

Are you prepared for a breakdown?

By RHONDA MIMS-BROWN

You're driving down the freeway during business rush hour and suddenly your car starts sputtering and losing speed. Is there enough power to worm your way over to the shoulder? What if your car dies right in the middle of the highway? What if you break down at 2 a.m. on a deserted farm road?

Being prepared in the event of a breakdown is critical. My motor racing background and position on Lyn St. James' Automotive Team has taught me a lot about being ready for the unexpected. Below are suggestions from Lyn St. James' book, Car Owner's Manual, as well as recommendations from the Texas Department of Motor Vehicles. What to do if you experience problems on the road

- If your car is still rolling after it dies, keep the momentum going.
- Put on the emergency flashers.
- Put the transmission in neutral.
- Ease off to the right if possible. If you are in the far left lane of a divided highway, you might have to pull off to the left if there is a shoulder.
- Exit from the car door facing away from traffic.
- Raise the hood and leave it open.
- Tie a light colored cloth to your antenna or door handle. This signals other motorists of an emergency.
- If possible, stay with the vehicle until uniformed law enforcement arrives, especially at night or during bad weather.
- Place a "Send Help" sign in a window so it is visible to other motorists.
- If someone stops to help, keep your doors locked, crack a window, and ask them to call law enforcement for help.
- If you decide you must walk, write down the following and leave it on your dash: name, date, time you left the vehicle, direction you are going.

• If you decide you must accept a ride, write down the following and leave it on your dash: your name, date, time you left, direction you are going, plate number of the vehicle you are riding in, vehicle's description, name and description of the person with whom you're riding.

• You should notify law enforcement of the location and circumstances in which you left your vehicle.

Sometimes the source of a breakdown is as simple as a flat tire or as dangerous as brake failure. While you'll need a trained technician to repair your brakes, you should learn how to fix simple problems like a flat tire.

Changing a flat isn't as complicated as many women fear. The most important thing is to maintain a "can do" attitude. I highly recommend that you become familiar with your owner's manual's recommendations on changing a tire before the need arises. Locate your spare tire, jack and lug wrench. Ask someone who's experienced to observe you in a practice run. Afterwards, you'll be better prepared to handle this challenge on your own.

No one wants to be caught in a breakdown situation, but being prepared puts you in a good position. The most important advice is to stay calm, be aware of your surroundings and maintain a positive frame of mind.

Rhonda Mims-Brown is a top driver in high speed kart racing, traveling the circuit for 17 years. A member of the Car Care Council's Women's Board, she is also a motor sports marketing agent.

Why worry about wipers?

A 1994 ice storm did approximately $3 billion damage to the Southeast. In 1995, a November snowstorm shattered snowfall records in many cities. Last year, a series of late winter storms brought snow and heavy rain to the Pacific Northwest, while the Great Plains battled crippling blizzards.

Are you ready for winter, 1997-style? No matter where you live, winter weather will affect you and will have an impact on your driving. When it comes to traveling during this unpredictable season, motorists have a number of legitimate concerns. However, few of them are as vital as simply being able to see through the windshield.

Before the weather gets nasty, every motorist needs to winterize his/her vehicle. The best place to begin, according to James Croston, director of marketing at TRICO is with your windshield wipers. Drivers should carefully examine their blades on a regular basis. Keeping the windshield clean and using a quality wiper fluid will help prolong the life of the blades, but not forever.

The wiper elements on premium blades are made from natural rubber, the most resilient and flexible product for wiping across glass. But just like tires, rubber has a natural tendency to break down over time. Extreme temperature variations, ozone, ultraviolet light, pollutants and road chemicals speed the deterioration process. In addition, damage from ice scrapers and car washes frequently cause damage. Bending the wiper frame may result in a loss of arm tension, interfering with the wiper's contact against the glass.

One of the most significant causes of winter damage occurs when wiper blades are frozen to the windshield with a thin sheet of ice or frost. If not carefully broken loose before use, the precision wiping edge of the element will actually tear, resulting in poor wiping quality.

No one can predict when most automotive components will fail. In fact, regular maintenance will dramatically improve the lifespan of most parts. But damaged blades and related wiper components will only be noticed in the worst of driving conditions when replacing the blade may not be an option.

Although TRICO's engineers say the windshield wipers on any car should be changed every 6,000 miles to ensure safety and reliability, most vehicle owners change their blades far less frequently. In fact, the average motorist changes his/her blades just once every 2 to 3 years. That's proof that too few drivers understand the dangers of driving with deteriorated or damaged wiper blades.

A recent study by the American Optometric Association revealed that 90 percent of all driving decisions are based solely on visual cues. A related survey of vehicles inspected during National Car Care Month showed 1 in 5 vehicles had deficient windshield wipers or washer systems that could seriously impair a driver's vision. Without clear vision, drivers may not be able to make safe decisions to avoid accidents — or tragedies.

Winter driving is difficult enough in much of the country, without motorists having to contend with reduced vision. The folks at TRICO suggest improving your outlook on the upcoming snowy season by installing a new set of premium Winter Blades before icy weather sets in — 1997 style.

Tire care = excellent return on investment

Tires. We take them for granted until something goes wrong. Most often that "something" is human error: poor maintenance. Improper inflation, combined with an out-of-balance condition and poor wheel alignment, can cut the useful life of tires by 50 percent.

It also can affect the vehicle's ride and handling characteristics. Beyond that, an underinflated tire, due to increased rolling resistance, hurts fuel economy.

Owning a good tire gauge and using it regularly is important. As the temperature drops, so does tire pressure: about a pound for every 10 degrees.

Remember, too, that tires should be checked cold. Pay attention to periodic tire rotation, wheel balance and alignment.

The Car Care Council offers a free pamphlet on tire care. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Department FW97-TIRES, One Grande Lake Dr., Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Now is the time of year when deer pose a greater roadside risk in both rural and urban areas. Help reduce the number of deer-related auto accidents this season by following these simple suggestions:

- Drive extra cautiously in wooded areas, especially during early morning and evening hours.
- Watch for deer crossing signs along roadways.
- When you spot deer along the road, safely slow down and allow them to pass, remembering deer move in groups.

A stroke of imagination

73-year-old brings the images of his mind to life on canvas

By SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

One might refer to Richard Dopp as a late bloomer.

The 73-year-old did not start painting with oils on canvas, something that now consumes a great portion of his life, until after he retired.

The subjects of Dopp's paintings range from that which he can only imagine in his mind to the prize roses he grows in his own garden.

He is not a world traveler, yet he paints seascapes, even though he has only seen the ocean once.

"I recently went to the west coast to actually see the ocean," Dopp said. "That is the only time that I have been to see it."

For the past 10 years he has headed to northern Wisconsin for a week at Dillman's Lodge, where he studies with the famous artist Charles Vickery, known for his seascape paintings.

Dopp has amassed many seascape paintings of his own, some painted from Vickery's own works, others using scenes from several other works, or from his own creations from what he has viewed.

Somewhat more impressive are the paintings of flowers Dopp has created that almost look like photographs.

Most of the flower paintings Dopp has are of actual flowers, many of them roses, found in his backyard.

"My passion is roses because I have a rose garden," he said. Dopp photographs the flowers, and then uses one, or several, to create a painting.

"The trick is to exactly follow the photo image," he said. "You work with photos with shadows that show depth and choose the best photos."

Painting seascapes for Dopp is a little easier, he said, as it is more of a free-style way of painting.

Dopp has lived in Lake Zurich since 1955, having first lived in Brookfield with his wife Ethel, who died in 1986. He worked as a product designer for ITT Bell and Gossett for 41 years, mostly designing industrial pumps.

During his days in Brookfield he had heard about Vickery, who paints out of a studio in LaGrange when not teaching in Wisconsin.

Both Dopp and his wife created Rosemaling paintings, a Norwegian decorative folk art which combines graceful "C" and "S" scrolls to form designs enhanced by stylized flowers. Usually these works are done on pieces of wood, either small boards

Richard Dopp also enjoys painting roses. He works from photographs of the flowers in his own garden.

Lantern procession

The City of Chicago and Dominick's Finer Foods will present the First Children's Halloween Lantern Procession and Spectacle created by The Redmoon Theater, set for Saturday, Oct. 25 at 5 p.m.

The procession begins at State and Randolph Streets, heads south on State, turns west on Monroe Street to Dearborn, turns north on Dearborn, and finishes with a 20-minute performance at Daley Center Plaza.

This participatory Halloween procession for school children was inspired by seasonal celebrations in Europe and Mexico.

The Redmoon Theater company will create the procession, which includes six pairs of rolling towers measuring 15 feet high and topped by giant lantern heads. Other giant lantern shapes include grasshoppers, iguanas, gorillas, birds, and mythical beasts.

These designs are all lit from within, and made with flame-treated rice paper and bamboo. Many of the lanterns and effigies to be used in the procession were constructed by talented high school students through the Gallery 37 summer arts program.

In addition, the procession and spectacle will include 50 professional performers from the Redmoon Theater, including dancers, giant puppeteers, jugglers, fire breathers, sword fighters, and skeletons.

Also featured in the procession and spectacle will be the Jellyeye Drum Theatre. With a set of 12 drums built from industrial sewer pipe and 55-gallon oil cans, Jellyeye's unique art combines drumming and movement into an energetic celebration the defies classification. Procession participants and spectators can then watch the 20-minute spectacle at the Daley Plaza Center.

Many of the children in the procession will represent Chicago public and parochial schools that raised the most money "Trick or Treating" for UNICEF last October. They will be in costumes of their own creation and will hold lanterns, noisemakers, and chimes.

For further details on the procession, call (312)744-3370.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

As much as you would like to help a friend in need, Aries, you cannot tell a lie for him or her. While this friend may be upset right now, he or she will realize that you did the right thing very soon. A hectic week at work puts you on edge. Try to relax by doing something special for yourself. Scorpio plays a key role.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Remember that slow and steady wins the race, Taurus. Don't rush to resolve an urgent situation; it only will cause more problems. Take your time, and make sure you're doing the right thing. A loved one turns to you after an accident. Be supportive. He or she really needs you.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

A little white lie gets you into a lot of trouble during the middle of the week. You have to think fast on your feet to get out of it. A friend introduces you to an interesting person. Be yourself; don't try to impress him or her by putting on an act. Have confidence in yourself. Aries plays a role.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Prepare for a good week, Cancer. Everything you do leads to praise. However, don't let all of the attention go to your head. You still have to work hard to stay on top. That special someone asks you an important question. Don't make a rash decision. Pisces plays a key role.

Leo - July 23/August 23

While you're normally outgoing, Leo, you get shy this week. You're afraid to talk to anyone and show your true feelings. There's no cause for alarm. Everyone gets in a funk now and then. You'll feel like your old self again before the end of the week. A loved one tells you a secret.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

You're on your own early in the week, Virgo. Everyone you've been counting on to help you isn't around. Don't worry — you can handle it without a problem. A loved one pries into your personal life. Don't tell him or her anything that you want to keep private, because he or she just can't keep it quiet.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

It's time for you to seek a balance in your life, Libra. You've been focusing too much on your professional life recently. Relax, and pamper yourself. Go out on the town; see old friends; try to meet new people. You deserve it. Another Libra plays an important role later in the week.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

Stand tough, Scorpio, because it will seem like everyone is against you early in the week. Keep your chin up, since you haven't done anything wrong. Things will be back to normal by the week's end. You meet an interesting person while out on an errand; don't be shy.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Loved ones look to you to be the brave one during the middle of the week. You can do it, even though you are faced with a trying situation. That special someone wants to get closer. Say yes, or you may end up regretting it. Capricorn and Taurus play key roles during the weekend.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

An incident at work makes you realize how valuable you really are to your company. Don't let co-workers' antics get you down. A loved one asks for your help with a family surprise. Let your creativity flow. You meet an interesting person on the street. Make plans to see him or her again.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

You need a little direction this week, Aquarius, because things are just too hectic for you to think clearly. Turn to a trusted loved one for advice. A close friend treats you to an evening out. Don't be a stick in the mud; try to have some fun. Gemini plays an important role on Friday.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Your humorous nature breaks the tension at a family gathering this week. Show loved ones that they shouldn't take things so seriously. Your patience is tested later in the week when several close friends turn to you for support. Try not to let them down, even if it does stress you out.

HAWAII'S BEST GOLF COURSES

by JIM WARNKEN
President, North Star Travel

So you think you've played some pretty tough courses? Well, you haven't seen anything until you've teed off on the 8th hole at Rockresorts on the sparsely populated Hawaiian island of Lanai, and looked down 250 feet to the fairway below. If that's not enough, just wait and see what kind of games the prevailing trade winds play with your drive!

Rockresorts is just one of the many challenging, but above all, spectacularly beautiful, golf courses on the Hawaiian Islands. Here are a few more to dream about while your frost covered clubs sit in the garage. Kauai, known as Hawaii's "Garden Isle", offers great golf on both ends of the island.

On Kauai's north coast is a golfer's paradise called Princeville. This winner of Golf Magazine's Silver Medal boasts 45 holes of Robert Trent Jones designed fairways. Of those 45 holes are a couple of par threes (the third and seventh at Makai) which will really test your mettle.

Moving south on Kauai we come to the Poipu bay area and a new Robert Trent Jones Golf Course with its lush 328 Bermuda grass fairways and Tiffdwaf greens. Think your drive is pretty good? Try the 580 yard number par-five number four on the "driveable" par-four 300 yard sixth hole.

The 13th hole at the Kona Surf Resort on the Big Island will really test your concentration. Just try to ignore the great plumes of white spray as tides try to push the entire Pacific Ocean through a lava tube off to the right of the tee.

Travel to Hawaii has dropped the last couple of years which means less crowds and much lower prices! So wipe the frost off those clubs (which fly free by the way) and quit dreaming of summer. It's waiting for you in Hawaii!

Life as a columnist's hubby — 'it's a bear'

My husband suggested that since I "picked on him" in this space several weeks ago, perhaps I should try writing a column from his point of view. In other words, put myself in his size 10 1/2 shoes for a moment.

My answer to his suggestion was: be careful what you wish for, dear—you just might get it!

So here it is—"Life's A Bear" as it might be written by my husband, "Bear".

Whew! I never thought this writing stuff would be so hard. It took me an hour to find the "on" button for the computer, but I managed. So here we go—one finger at a time!

I'm not sure how to begin. I guess I'd like to say that not everything my wife tells you is true. Sometimes she's just trying to be funny, so she fibs a little. For instance, I have never had a "fishing frenzy" or anything like that. She made me sound like I foam at the mouth every time I look out the window at the lake. (Maybe just a little drool.)

I suppose she wasn't fibbing about me going fishing every day, but it's just for a little while. It's my hobby. My wife has a hobby, too—she likes to play with her computer.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

Okay, maybe I should rephrase that, because she'll get ticked off at me. She's not "playing," she's "writing." (And I'm not "fishing," I'm "thinking." How's that?)

Actually, she's lucky to have me, though I'm not sure you can tell that by reading her columns. I really am a good catch, and that has nothing to do with fishing. You might be surprised to know that I cook dinner almost every night—that's one reason.

How many husbands do that? And I don't just throw hot dogs in some water, either.

For example, I happen to make a killer pot roast. You have not tasted pot roast, mashed potatoes and gravy until you've had mine. It's so good, my buddy, Kevin, asked for my recipe.

Unfortunately, his didn't turn out as well. What can I say? Some got it, some don't.

She's also lucky to have me because I don't mind all that much when she writes about me. Of course, it depends on what she writes. Sometimes I laugh out loud. Sometimes I get a little irritated, like the time she wrote about men having some kind of "lost" gene, meaning that we can never find anything. That's a lot of ...you know. So now, every time I find something that she can't, I remind her of that column. Ooh, that irritates her when I'm right!

Also, I wonder how many women can say they're married to a guy who looks just like Mel Gibson? (My wife's not one of them—I was just wondering! Ha, ha!)

There is one point my wife will definitely not argue with me on, and that's when I say that I'm a great dad. She knows it, I know it, the kids know it.

Now you know it.

Unfortunately, the fact that I'm a great dad is not all that funny, or so my wife tells me. So this will probably be the first and last time you read about what a great dad I am. Better save this column. It's a keeper—just like me. 'Bye!

MOVIE PICK

Clooney, Kidman make peace & love

George Clooney and Nicole Kidman pair up to save the world in the action thriller "The Peacemaker."—Submitted photo

Putting "taking it easy" George Clooney into an action thriller like "The Peacemaker," is as workable as the very laid back Dean Martin was in his Matt Helm adventure series, and that ain't all bad.

Adding one of Hollywood's best, most beautiful and most versatile actresses, Tom Cruise's better half, Nicole Kidman, to help him save the world is more than not bad, it's a very good idea. Kidman plays a nuclear specialist from the White House.

Include the best ingredient of all Director Mimi Leder, also from TV's "ER," who apparently can switch from the white coats of the emergency room to foreign intrigue, explosions and the big time excitement about stopping questionable third world powers like Iran and Bosnia from getting their hands on nuclear weapons from the now deunionized Soviet Union.

Clooney seems to be having more fun playing a special forces commander out to solve this weapons problem, than he had playing Batman, and Kidman who is a screen delight whether in a 19th century costume drama, committing a murder or two, or tearing around the capitals of the world amid one explosion after another.

She is more than a match for a Clooney who seems to have pumped a few vitamins into his system and even gets out of bed long enough to display an emotion or two.

Do we believe the story, of course not, we don't expect a high tech thriller to make any more sense than what a nice guy like Clooney and a nice girl like Kidman are doing chasing bad guys all over the place.

Yet under the guidance of Leder, the excitement sails along nicely enough despite the old cliches of car and helicopter chases, hair raising bomb disarming, and lots and lots of rolling gold and orange explosions.

It worked in "Air Force One," "Broken Arrow," and many more, so why argue quality and originality, not to mention success. Sit back and savor Clooney's good looks, Kidman's many talents and the first look at the kind of movies that the team of entertainment moguls Steven Spielberg, Jeffrey Katzenberg and David Geffen will be turning out.

Though "The Peacemaker" might be considered by some to be a lightweight, we give it three out of five stars just for keeping us interested even after the glut of action-eering we witnessed this past movie season.—By Gloria Davis

Steps brides can take for wedding success

There are many steps brides can take to make their wedding a success. The following suggestions will organize the many details and help get your wedding off to a smooth start.

Set your budget

Planning will be much easier when you work within a set budget. Once you decide on the total amount you want to spend, you should decide how much to spend in each area. This will save a great deal of decision-making time because you will know what you can and cannot afford for each specific category.

Get organized

Many brides find checklists useful in organizing their wedding plans. There are many different methods, however, such as color-coded folders, computer files or index cards. After you choose the system that is best for you, the next step is to make a master list of all the things you need to do (ordering flower arrangements, for example). This list should then be divided into smaller tasks (call around for prices, match flower to fabric of bridesmaids' dresses, etc.).

Set priorities

Planning will be much easier if you prioritize the things you need to get done each day. You usually won't have time to follow-up on an idea the minute you think of it. Keep a list of these ideas to make it easier to set your priorities and get everything done on time.

Research

You can get ideas for many of your wedding items by looking through catalogs or magazines. Tear out photos of gown styles, bouquets and dinnerware patterns and take them into the bridal shops to help you when you begin shopping.

Bridal events

Bridal events are a great way to cut down on the time you spend running from merchant to merchant. Local newspapers give the dates, times and places for bridal fairs and other special events where you will have a chance to take care of many of your wedding details under one roof.

Shop by mail or phone

Doing research over the phone will save time by letting you get to know local merchants to help you to pick the ones which match your style and budget. Be sure to ask detailed questions and take notes. You should also take advantage of any information-by-mail offer that companies may offer. Catalogs are also good places to get gift ideas for attendants and others you want to honor.

Buy an answering machine

If you don't already have one, an answering machine is a good investment. Vendors can call your home number and leave detailed messages regarding availability, color, cost, etc. This will prevent you from being disturbed at work, and it will also allow you to deal with the vendors when you're ready.

Don't neglect other duties

You'll save time in the long run if you keep on top of other activities while you're planning your wedding. Letting things pile up at the office will make it harder to take off when you really need to. Think of how nice it will be coming back from your honeymoon without worries of extra work waiting for you!

A consumer's guide to engagement rings

Two-and-a-half million couples become engaged each year and 70 percent of them receive a diamond engagement ring. Ever since Archduke Maximilian and Mary of Burgundy began this tradition in 1477, prospective grooms the world over have asked, "How do I buy a diamond engagement ring?" The answer to this important question can be found in the following step-by-step buyer's guide:

Step One: Determine the budget. Deciding how much to spend on a diamond engagement ring is very personal, and obviously depends on income. Many consumers find the two months' salary guideline to be helpful in determining how much to spend. Most importantly, choose the finest quality affordable diamond, because a diamond engagement ring is a unique symbol of commitment that will be treasured for many years.

Step Two: To choose the best diamond to fit any budget, it is important to become an educated consumer. No two diamonds are alike, although they may look identical to the naked eye. The variables that determine the quality of a diamond are called the 4C's, which are cut, color, clarity and carat weight. The 4C's are the key to understanding why two diamonds of equal size may not be of equal value:

Cut: This is perhaps the most important of the 4C's because a quality cut is what gives a diamond its brilliant sparkle. Light is reflected best through a well-cut stone and the arrangement of its 58 facets. Facets are tiny planes that give a diamond its "fire." It is important to distinguish between the cut, which is purely technical, and its shape. Shape is purely a matter of personal taste; the most popular shapes of diamonds are round, also known as "brilliant," marquise, pear, oval and emerald.

Color: Determining a diamond's color is done by measuring the degree to which a diamond approaches colorlessness, allowing the stone to cleanly reflect and refract light. The best color is no color. Jewelers discuss the color of a diamond on a letter scale beginning with D, which is absolutely colorless and very rare. Diamonds with strong, pure color are called "fancies." Pink, blue and canary are the most prized, but diamonds have been found in almost any hue.

Clarity: A diamond's clarity is determined by the degree to which it is free from naturally occurring inclusions, often called "nature's fingerprints." Most diamonds contain some inclusions, nearly all of which can be seen only under 10 or more power magnification. A flawless diamond is extremely rare. The size and position of the inclusions were formed within the diamond millions of years ago.

Carat: Carat refers to the weight of the diamond. There are 100 points in a carat, therefore a diamond weighing 1/2 carat is 50 points. Diamonds over one carat are very rare. The rarity of a diamond is appreciated even more with the knowledge that approximately 250 tons of ore must be mined and processed in order to produce a one-carat polished stone.

Step Three: A man getting engaged should have some idea of the style of ring and shape of diamond his fiancé prefers. She may like a round, brilliant center stone in a traditional setting, or a pear-shaped diamond surrounded by baguettes may strike her fancy. If he has no clue about her tastes, he can ask her friends and relatives for their thoughts, as most women express a preference "between friends."

Step Four: Consumers should visit a reputable jeweler whom they know and trust. The jeweler can explain the 4C's of a diamond's quality and value. Many couples visit the store together, so that the groom-to-be has an idea of the style of ring his fiancé would like. He can then surprise his fiancé with the final choice.

Selecting a diamond engagement ring is a milestone occasion for a prospective groom. Using a two months' salary spending guideline and a knowledge of the 4C's, he can be confident that the diamond engagement ring will be a symbol of enduring quality...and one of enduring love.

Marriage bliss starts with the wedding of your dreams

When it comes to her wedding, the contemporary bride often mixes traditional and modern concepts that influence not only the ceremony and her gown, but also the wider arena of marriage and her relationships.

Brides today are older than they were, but that does not rule out a large, traditional ceremony and a long, white gown. These days, however, it is also chic to be married in a tailored suit.

The key to a successful wedding is deciding on one with which the bride and groom are comfortable. The new trend in weddings for the '90s is the freedom of expression to create their own unique ceremony and a reception that reflects their ideas.

Because today's bride is older, she often has an education and career experience behind her. Her tastes are more sophisticated and so are her expectations of her relationship with her spouse.

Not only does she value her marriage, but also the career that she has worked to obtain. Chances are she will strive to create a balance between the time she spends with her husband and the time she allocates for her job. Time management is important to most young couples making the transition between single and married life.

Matrimony has experienced a resurgence in the '90s, but it incorporates a new breed of togetherness. Women today enjoy more career freedom than their mothers, but also have rediscovered traditional ideas. Today's bride is likely to advocate equality, dual careers and sharing the tasks of parenthood, but have more traditional values as well.

With education and career freedom comes the fact that the bride of today has traveled outside of her hometown. She may have gone away to college and then relocated to a city with career opportunities. Therefore, it is less likely that the '90s bride will marry her high-school sweetheart.

Chances are that the bride and groom are from different parts of the country. This leads to innovative ideas to get the friends and relatives from both sides to mix and mingle at different weekend events such as barbecues, picnics and cocktail parties.

What this translates about the new trend in weddings for the '90s is that they are an intimate interpretation of the couple to be married, reflecting their ideals, goals and lifestyle.

Today's couples have a new maturity and freedom reflected by how they choose to celebrate their marriage. Wedding choices are varied and numerous—and the 90's wedding is certainly one characterized by freedom of expression.

WEDDING

Seemann-Andavert Obach

The wedding of Stephanie Jane Seemann of Barcelona, Spain; and Alejandro Andavert Obach of Barcelona, Spain took place on Aug. 9 at Manor House Andavert, officiated by Rev. Myron Meyer of St. Mark Lutheran Church, Lindenhurst.

The bride was given away by her father in a double ring ceremony. The Maid of Honor was Karen Schneider, friend of the bride. Matron of Honor was Susan Bindley Kalmer, a friend of the bride. The Flower girl was Rachal Baehler, cousin of the bride.

Manuel deMontalvo of Madrid, Spain was the Best Man. Groomsman was Wm. H. Seemann, Jr., brother of the bride and the Usher was Christopher Seemann, brother of the bride.

The reception was held at the Manor House.

The couple honeymooned in Menorca, Spain (Island in Mediterranean Sea).

They plan to reside in Barcelona, Spain.

The bride is the daughter of Mary J. Baehler and Wm. Seemann of Antioch. She attended Illinois State University and Benjamin Franklin International School in Barcelona, Spain.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Andavert of Barcelona, Spain. He attended Cambridge University and is self-employed/owner of El Moli Restaurant.

Alex and Steph met in Spain, three years ago. The wedding gown designed in Barcelona, Spain was ivory silk with brocade at the waist with chapel train.

Keep silver looking as good as new

Sterling silver, whether it is a traditional or modern style, is a popular wedding gift for the bride and groom and a wonderful addition to their home. Here are some tips to help them care for their silver.

•Wash silverware (refers to both sterling silver flatware and hollow ware such as teapots, trays, sugar bowls and creamers) in hot, sudsy water, then rinse in clean, hot water.

Clean crevices with a worn toothbrush or fine natural-bristle brush. To avoid spotting, immediately dry the pieces with a chamois or soft cotton cloth.

•Polish silverware with a soft cotton or flannel cloth and a brand-name liquid or paste silver polish. Dip polishes are not suggested on intricately detailed pieces; it will remove an oxidized pattern as well as tarnish.

Rub a piece lengthwise; never polish crosswise or with a circular motion, as this may cause scratches. If you use your silverware regularly, expect to polish it just once or twice a year.

•Avoid wrapping silverware in plastic, aluminum foil or newspaper, or binding flatware with rubber bands, which can result in damage.

•Store silverware in an airtight silver chest or in protective bags made of tarnish-proof cloth.

Reception Perfect!!

Elegant expressions for at-home receptions

At-home wedding receptions are more popular than ever—your home is the perfect place to express your style on your special day.

You can surround yourself with family heirlooms, favorite dishes, serving pieces, crystal, silver and linens. Even if the reception is catered, these treasured pieces can be added to those the caterer provides.

To ensure that your at-home reception is the best it can be, plan ahead, say the experts at Wilton.

• Think size. How many guests can your home comfortably accommodate?

• How about help? Will friends and family help prepare, serve and clean up, or do you need to hire additional help? Do you need a caterer?

• Decor? It doesn't have to be elaborate, but be sure to include something in every room. A sprig of flowers with a colorful ribbon can transform a room into part of the festivities. Adorn the punch ladle and champagne glass stems with ribbon streamers. Garnish punch cup rims with a perfect strawberry.

• What time? How hungry will guests be? Are light hors d'oeuvres enough, or will more substantial fare be needed?

• The menu? It must be easy to eat and serve. Most guests are likely to be standing instead of sitting. For example, vegetables and dip, fruit and cheese, pâtés and sliced breads, individual fruit tarts, and chocolate truffles are easy to serve and eat without utensils.

The star, of course, is the wedding cake. Make it one to be remembered, and one that suits your personal style. For a twist on tradition, Wilton has created Interlude, a magnificent cake cascading with hundreds of flowers.

A three-tiered cake is covered with rolled fondant (it's pre-made—all you do is roll it out and drape it over the layers). The easy-to-make flowers are cut from fondant, too, using small flower cutters in your favorite shape, like calyx, wild rose or daisies. The flower centers are just a dot of icing—choose a color or make them white, depending on your color scheme. Satin ribbons and bows finish the cake.

Instead of the traditional cake topper, opt for the Kissing Love Birds ornament. Both it and the Candlelight Cake Stand have been painted silver to create a softened, antique look. (Be sure to separate any painted surfaces from the cake as the paint is not food-safe.)

For a step-by-step guide to planning fabulous weddings start to finish, you can't be without "Wilton Weddings." This invaluable 136-page book includes color photos of cakes, receptions and weddings, recipes, checklists—even a pull-out wedding planning guide. For more information or to order the book, write to Wilton, 2240 W. 75th St., Woodridge, IL 60517, or call (630) 963-7100, Ext. 320. It also can be purchased at craft, department, party and specialty stores or wherever Wilton products are sold. Retail price is $14.99.

Etiquette tips for gift-giving

In general, a wedding invitation—to a reception or to a small wedding in a club, hotel or private home—calls for a gift. A wedding announcement or invitation to a church ceremony alone carries no such obligation.

But it is in the selection of the gift that questions and problems can arise. Like most other aspects of weddings, existing "rules" can be most helpful.

All close members of the bride and groom's families will want to send gifts, whether they attend the wedding or not. The bride's parents often will start the couple's flat silver service with as many place settings as they can afford. The groom's parents may give china or crystal or furnishings for the home.

If the bride and groom have registered at the bridal registry in a local store, selecting appropriate gifts will be easy. The registry allows the about-to-be-married couple to list their gift preferences. In addition to assuring guests that what they have chosen is something wanted or needed, it helps prevent duplication and the need for gift returns. The gift purchaser merely visits or phones the stores, ask the consultant to check the form registered by the couple and selects a gift according to suggestions on the list.

Whatever the circumstances, a basic rule regarding wedding gifts, no one is expected or obligated to give a gift beyond one's means.

Gifts are usually sent to the bride's home before the day of the wedding, addressed to her maiden name. When they are sent after the wedding, they go to Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed at their new address, or in care of the bride's family. People sometimes do, but should not, carry wedding gifts to the reception.

It is also proper—if the opportunity exists—to ask the bride or groom what they would like as a present. If they are using a gift registry, they will probably indicate this and suggest checking with the store.

However, they may make some suggestions as "really prefer pewter to silver," or "We love gardening so anything along those lines would be great." Checks are perfectly acceptable as wedding gifts, although they are usually given by close relatives.

Kids picking on each other... When does it become serious?

Dear Dr. Singer,

School has just begun and our child is being picked on by a group of kids. The abuse has been serious. He has been hurt physically and also maligned. We have approached the school about this and feel that we are not being heard or listened to at all. We have asked for observations for confirmation. There have been none. In the meantime, our son is coming home with bruises. Our child is a very meek and timid child and this is just killing both of us. We are concerned for our child's safety. Do you have any thoughts on this? Signed....Worried in Lake County.

Dear Worried,

My first thought is that although I am concerned for you, you shouldn't be writing me first to find out what to do. You need to speak with a lawyer first. This sounds terribly dangerous! Additionally, it sounds like you may have to push harder to be heard. If your child is being physically hurt, immediate action needs to be taken to prevent this from happening again. If the school isn't listening at all and your child is being seriously injured, your first priority would be to make sure your child is safe. This may mean switching him to private school or some other alternative educational placement. The reason I say this is because even if you were able to discuss this with your school, the abuse may continue throughout these talks and your child may not be safe. I don't have enough details here to comment directly, but it sounds pretty serious. It also sounds like these other kids are bullies and bullies do not usually go away quickly unless something happens to cause them to lose their power in the situation.

Bullies have been a problem since certainly we were children and probably since the beginning of time. How to handle them has changed because the nature of the bully has changed. In the days of the "little rascals", bullies would take your lunch money and push you down. Unfortunately in the days of X-Men, bullies can be a lot more dangerous including carrying guns and killing you. Depending on the area you live in, you may have a worse problem with this than other areas. How you deal with a bully will also be dependent on the age of your child. If your child is 5, and being bothered by a 5 year old, obviously the bully will be handled differently than if your child is 15 and being terrorized by a group of teens. Regardless, there needs to be follow up.

If your child is being harassed in school, regardless of age, the logical thing to do is get very involved with the school personnel and help them to understand their responsibility for your child's safety while that child is in their care. I have seen situations in my office in which a child who is quiet and mild mannered gets victimized by a group of kids who are in trouble most of the time. In a particular situation, the school had chosen to allow a child with a long history of violent behavior problems to leave the school during lunch and have open lunch. At lunch one day, she decided to ambush a client of mine and broke her nose. The school's contention was that it wasn't their responsibility because my client was somehow thought to have encouraged this (she claims she didn't note: this was also a very meek and timid girl).

The family was encouraged to follow up and in this particular situation, the school was legally let know that while a child is on their grounds and supposed to be in their care, the child's safety and well being are the school's responsibility. Now, of course, all schools and school personnel are different. I would believe that most schools and school personnel want the kids at their school to be completely safe so they can concentrate on their education.

This may not be the case in every school, however, from 8-3, the school needs to be sure that the children are doing what they are supposed to be doing and not out ambushing people at lunch. In this particular situation, the important question was, "why was a child with a history like this allowed to be off campus for lunch? Why was she not in a self-contained classroom where her behavior could not hurt anyone else?" We need to look carefully at a situation like this because, it is a smaller version of what is occurring in our society at large. The innocent are getting victimized by the "out of control" because the people in the system do not put barriers in front of the "out of control" or provide appropriate consequences for the "out of control."

As a parent, if your child is being bullied or harassed in school, you will need to go on the offensive to make people do what is expected of them in terms of seeing that your child is safe enough to get an education. Sometimes that is a difficult job.

If bullying is occurring outside of school, depending on the child's age and where you live, you may want to either speak with the child's parents or actually get the police involved if need be. If you suspect any danger, the police are who you want to talk to first. You may also want to involve a lawyer.

Bullying is something that will continue as long as people continue. It is about gaining power where you feel you don't have any. Bullies are power abusers and can be dealt with using the correct intervention: swift appropriate consequences. If their power abuse ends with costing them something, it usually means something to them. If it ends with them gaining more control/power or having manipulated the system or the people in it, they are learning a very dangerous, permanent lesson that we will all feel later. Good luck!

PAINTER: Imagination on canvas

Brookfield with his wife Ethel, who died in 1986. He worked as a product designer for ITT Bell and Gossett for 41 years, mostly designing industrial pumps.

During his days in Brookfield he had heard about Vickery, who paints out of a studio in LaGrange when not teaching in Wisconsin.

Both Dopp and his wife created Rosemaling paintings, a Norwegian decorative folk art which combines graceful "C" and "S" scrolls to form designs enhanced by stylized flowers.

Usually these works are done on pieces of wood, either small boards or carved plates, but sometimes Dopp paints them on canvas during a demonstration, giving the audience a better view of what he is doing.

It wasn't until 1987 that he first started painting on canvas with oil paint, after taking some classes taught by Vickery.

"Now it occupies all of my thoughts," he said. "I started here, just dabbling in oil and painting on canvas, before I had any lessons."

"Then I took my first class and I was hooked," he said. "I will probably never be a Rembrandt, but I do enjoy the process of learning art."

Dopp has collected many, many photographs of flowers, and now of mountains from his recent journey, which he uses for his paintings.

Since he started his has sold many of his creations, however he still has enough to create a gallery in his home. When he does sell his pictures, the sale price mostly recoups his own costs.

"This is a hobby."

For just being a "hobbyist," Dopp has received recognition from his community. The Elia Area Public Library in Lake Zurich has held two monthly exhibitions of Dopp's paintings during the past several years, the latest occurring in August.

Miss Lake County scholarship competition set

The Miss Lake County Scholarship Competition is a preliminary to the Miss America Scholarship Competition that is held in Atlantic City. Every year, the Miss America program awards over $20,000 in scholarships to young women of college age. The competition consists of a formal interview, evening-wear, swim-wear and talent segments. The young woman who is awarded the title of Miss Lake County will proceed to the Miss Illinois contest, and eventually compete for the title of Miss America.

To qualify, a young woman must be between the ages of 17 and 25, a resident of Lake County, and currently enrolled in an accredited college program or be a graduating high school senior. There is no sponsorship or entry fee for competitors. A contestant's only cost is that of her clothing and props for the competition. The judging for the event will be done by trained judges from the Miss America system. The scholarship for the winner of the competition is dependent on the community and business sponsorship we receive, but is generally $1,000 or more. There are usually smaller scholarships and awards for the runners-up as well.

All interested young women and any adults who would like to volunteer to help with the program to call and leave your name, address and phone number. Information on organizational meetings will be mailed back to you. Local businesses and organizations will also be asked for support for the scholarship program. All non-profit organizations will also be invited to participate in the ticket sales program. The tickets are sold to the group at a reduced rate, then resold and profits kept for their charity.

Anyone interested in directing the Little Miss Lake County pageant as a fund-raiser for the scholarship program is also needed.

For further details contact Kristin Wheeler, executive director of the Miss Lake County Scholarship Competition at 838-6017.

Good sanitation habits create a healthy garden

As you know, summer is officially over, but our gardening tasks are not. Some of us lose steam over the season and are happy to let our gardens lie until next year, but this is really not time to take it easy. There is much to be done before the frost sets in. We need to tidy up around our flower and vegetable beds. Remove dead plants and if they are healthy compost them, if not burn the diseased plants, so as not to risk the chance of the diseases overwintering.

Fall is a great time to give our perennials a good pruning, when growth has slowed and plants have become dormant. Consult a pruning manual to help you determine the best time to trim and shape your plants. It is now a good time to divide your perennial plants also.

Good garden sanitation is a crucial step in keeping garden diseases and pests under control. As I've mentioned numerous times, I believe in gardening by the organic method, trying to stay away from chemical fertilizers and insecticides (except in most severe cases). This year I did not apply anything chemical to my garden. This can be a challenge in some years when insects are abundant and diseases are thriving. Keep your garden tools clean. Clean them with a 10 percent bleach solution, wipe them dry, and coat with a light household oil to prevent rust. Then they will be ready to be put away for the winter.

Continue to add to your compost pile for as long as you can. When the temperatures dip low enough, decomposition will slow or stop, but will begin again once temperatures warm. Common fall compost ingredients include fruit you forgot to harvest, fallen leaves, and plant stems and flower stalks. If you save row covers for next season, dip them in a 10 percent bleach solution, then let them air-dry before storage.

I like to till my garden in the fall. Tillage physically destroys soil animals and their shelter, as egg-infested plant debris or hollow stalks with pupae inside are torn to smaller pieces. When you work the soil, you redistribute the pests themselves, often leaving them at the surface where they're exposed to predators. Atop the soil, eggs dry out, freeze, or overheat. Tillage may also bury pests so deeply that they cannot survive.

Cultivated soil tends to warm up faster in the spring, which means that soil-dwelling pests emerge earlier. Researchers have discovered that pests may emerge from tilled soil one to two weeks earlier from untilled soil. If your garden is just getting started, earlier pest emergence may increase injury to young plants. If pests emerge before your crops, however, they will look elsewhere for food. I've found that waiting to till in spring is difficult, because we often have such wet springs, it is almost impossible to get out there and get the job done. And when it finally stops raining, the soil stays too wet to be able to work it. Well let's get out there and start cleaning up!

CRITIC'S CHOICE PM&L's 'Blithe' lifts spirits in strong production

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

P.M. & L. Theatre opened its 37th Season, Sept. 26, with Noel Coward's play "Blithe Spirit."

P.M. & L.'s "Blithe Spirit" is a strong production with a cast that looks like they are having fun, communicate their enjoyment, and radiate energy in their performances. This is a great night of entertainment.

"Blithe Spirit" is a high comedy tale of author Charles Condomine's effort to research the world of spirits for his new book. Inadvertently, the spirit of his dead wife arrives for a few days and the efforts to accommodate, then rid the household of two ghostly wives provides rich dialogue about his awkwardness.

There are four strong roles and each is wonderfully presented by the person acting it. The outstanding presentation is by Sylvia Brown in the role of spiritualist Madam Arcati. She looks sensational in her costume, she uses her body and voice to great effect from start to finish, and she sits, stands, struts, and rolls around on the stage as if it were an extension of herself. She has appeared in many North Shore productions and is comfortable with professional improvisation performance. It shows. Brown is a confident person who makes physical comedy work at the level of the verbal sparring.

Patrick Kerr, as Charles Condomine, was convincing from first drink to final set destruction. He looked good in the role and he hit the right attitude with his character's storied past. He made everything work. Kerr made his character and stage movements natural. He looked the part and delivered his lines well. Kerr is the director of the Grayslake High School theater program and has been active in many PM&L and Bowen Park Theatre productions.

Alice Byrne's Elvira, Charles' dead wife, is very very good. She can deliver the dialogue, but she can also say much with a smirk. Think about this: she looks good in gray: gray hair, gray skin, gray gown. Her character is dead, but her role lives. She is a PM&L standard bearer having performed as an actress and worked as choreographer for three years. She adds depth to the many strong features of this production.

Christine Heilgeist as Ruth is the lively current wife to Charles, and she is not too pleased about the ghostly arrival of the last one. Again, this is a good strong performance. She grabs the end of the previous dialogue and sails into her lines with confidence. There are no awkward pauses and she is always on target with stage movements. This is the play's fourth character with major stage time and it is a pleasure to be with her for the whole package. Her reflexes are pretty good too. Elvira flings a vase across the stage to Ruth. The fact that Ruth caught it is, in part, because it was a great throw. What an effect, and Heilgeist made it work.

Edith is played by Collene D. Griffith. For most of the play, the role is minor. She is critical for the conclusion of the play and she provides a good performance. This is also true for the roles of Dr. Bradman and his wife, played by Romeo L. Sobrepena and Sally Roberts. They have minimal stage time. When they are in the scene, however, they hold their own.

The set looks handsome. The furnishings are convincing. Lighting is good. The final laughs for the play are generated by the set. If the stage crew missed a production cue, I did not see or hear it. The seats installed a few years ago are comfortable and the audience sight lines are all very good. You can hear everything.

"Blithe Spirit" is directed by Kenneth Smouse at the 877 North Main Street theatre in Antioch. Set design is by Smouse and Matt Conkrite. The stage manager is Debbie Heimke; the producer is Betty Smouse, and the lighting design and technicians are Stacey Clifford and Mark Badtke.

"Blithe Spirit" is performed Oct. 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12. All performances are at 8 p.m. except the Oct. 5 and 12 shows which are at 2:30 p.m. Adult tickets are $10, and student and senior citizen tickets are $8. Reservations are taken at 847-395-3055. The box office opens 90 minutes before the performance and from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. On Saturday, the box office is open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Don't like increase

This is in regard to the increase on the cost of the paper from 50 cents to 75 cents. I feel that since the Lake County newspaper is still only 35 cents, I can't see why we should pay 75 cents for a small town newspaper.

Missed the point

Is the person who authored "Not an eyesore" missing the point? Who cares about what they start at "cost wise?" An eyesore is an eyesore; no matter what it costs, or may be worth! And what about these "laws" that he refers to "that have put the people where they are today?" What on earth could he be talking about? He goes on to say, "I'm sure he enjoys going to Wal-Mart and K-Mart and having it stocked... That can't be done without semis." If he's such a "big buddy" of these stores, why doesn't he go to them and ask to park in their lot? I'd think he'd find some rather unsympathetic ears. Does that mean "we" should welcome him with open arms for the privilege of having him decorate our neighborhood with his $100,000+ truck? As far as "they pay to park," I hope so. They would if they were parking on my property; but I doubt that my neighbors would like it. I can sympathize with this person's plight, but not his report.

Round Lake Beach

Let's band together

I read with great delight, "There are laws," and I feel that I'm not the only one who is being driven crazy fool neighbors and their damn dogs! I agree with the caller that owners are "ignorant." Not only are the owners ignorant, but the dogs they leave outside all day long to "yap" away are most likely unbalanced as well. You can't help but wonder why these fools bought the animals in the first place, other than they were "cute," or needed a "quick" present for their equally unbalanced children who soon lost interest in the poor animal. I hope that the people of Round Lake Beach would band together in order to end this abuse of animals and the problems it causes.

Round Lake Beach

Davis scores again

Mayor Lumber, while you slumber, Mayor Davis has scored again. The Beach is getting an 18-screen theater while our commercial area dies a little more each day. Wake up!

Round Lake

Let's be done with it

I'm sorry, but I'm not voting for a fancy, expensive outdoor aquatic center because our high school can use part of the landfill money Grayslake gets to build one inside, that we can use all year. Dist. 127 Supt. Ray Novak says the district could contribute $1 million toward the indoor pool and it would be open to the public at intervals during the day as well as evenings and weekends. In the summer, we have nature's Grays Lake in which to swim. The village and park district have no right to build a seasonal aquatic center with our money from the dump and then charge me to swim after paying $4500 in taxes. Let's build a pool at the high school we can use year round and be done with it.

Grayslake

Learn acceptance

My family and I don't appreciate being out in public with our handicapped child and having our child stared at like a circus act. It's funny, the children didn't notice the handicap until an adult pointed it out. It's pretty sad when adults need to learn acceptance more than children do.

Let's get up and cheer

I'd like to talk about Grant Bulldogs fans during the first two football games this season. I think it's unacceptable to me as an alumni to see our students don't get into the game more than some alumni and parents. I feel that we might not have a great team this year, but next year it could be different. The 30-40 guys who play on the team need the support of the student body. It's frustrating.

Lake Villa Twp.

No means no

Is "no soliciting" too big of a word to understand? We have this on our door and yet people still ring our doorbell and leave pamphlets on the door.

Can't thank enough

I'm calling regarding the comments of "Rescue" that ran on Aug. 28. I am the parent of a child who suffered severe trauma at the scene of an accident on July 27. I don't think I could live long enough to thank you enough. I watched as you worked on my son, preparing him to be airlifted. I knew he was in the best of care. I praise God for each of you and your devotion, enabling my son to be spared.

Kids deserve better

This is in regard to Dist. 118 wanting to add "add-ons" to the schools. I was wondering why we can't close down the high school, making it 7th and 8th grades, and building a new high school. I think it would be well worth it to take a look at this instead of adding on and making the high school suffer. The high school is one of the top in the state and the kids deserve better. Also, what's going on with Fox River Gardens homes on Roberts Road? Why are they being considered to go into Dist. 118, and also Lakemoor Farms in Lakemoor? These towns should build their own schools.

Island Lake

Faith restored

This is a thank you to the Gurnee Post Office, Dominick's, and a neighbor who lives on Beechwood. I lost my keys and wallet and the gentleman down the block returned my wallet and the post office, because of a Dominick's Fresh Values card that I had in there, checked with Dominick's, found out my name, and had my postman deliver my wallet to me. My faith in mankind has been restored. My thanks to Dominick's, the post office, and the neighbor who returned my wallet. Congratulations, America!

Gurnee

Check store's policy

In regard to the comment that said

"always overcharged" about grocery stores overcharging, what they need to do is check the store's policy. The policy at Jewel is that if an item is scanned higher than the price on the shelf, it is free!

Thanks for mail

Thank you, thank you, thank you! I went to my mailbox and found my Lakeland Newspaper in it. Thanks to the publisher who went back to the old way of delivery, which was the best way.

Anything goes

I'm calling in regard to "No problem before." I'm wondering if this person understands that these children are learning more now than they ever have. She must only know math, spelling and penmanship. Today, our kids are learning much more. I think 25 children is still too many. When you're talking high school students, it might be different. The little kids need more time. I would do anything, including paying higher taxes, so that my children get a good education.

Worth every penny

This is to "No problem before." Do you think they're making it easy on teachers? When was the "back in my days," the 1950s? Maybe you should sit in on a class for a day and see what it's like. Twenty percent want to learn and the other 80 percent have to worry about fighting and guns. I don't think teachers make enough money. So, put your dentures back in and call in with a response.

Clean it up

I live in a neighborhood full of Generation Xers. I think they should clean up their act. They're completely rude. Someone just dumped dog waste on my yard. I can't believe it.

Put Carmel everywhere

This is in regard to your newspaper's sports section. How come you never put Carmel High School in all your newspapers? The school encompasses areas from Antioch to Lake Zurich to Barrington to Lake Forest. Get with it, put Carmel in all the papers!

Make 'em high

I'm calling because I'm angry about the "impact fees don't pay for growth" article. I think the impact fees should be so sky high that not only do they pay for growth, but they stop building in Lake Villa anymore. It's getting overcrowded and it's not a nice rural area anymore. Get rid of the builders and home subdivisions!

Doesn't do any good

I'm calling in response to "There are laws" in the Sept. 18 issue. I'd like to state that I've lived in Round Lake Beach for three years and my neighbor has three dogs, more than the limit the law gives for pets. She's gone to court and she still has three dogs and probably nine cats. Whether you call the police or not, it's not going to get you anywhere.

We'll miss you, Marie

How sad for Antioch parents and children that Miss Marie has left Camp Crayon after 14 years of service. She's done so much to make us feel comfortable leaving our little ones. Camp Crayon won't be the same without her, going above and beyond what she needed to make us each feel special. There was a party given by the parents to thank her for the wonderful job she's done. It's disappointing that the village of Antioch didn't see the need for any recognition whatsoever. Aren't they supposed to represent the community? We'll always remember how she touched our lives and made a difference. Best wishes to you, Miss Marie. Thanks for the love and caring you gave us and our children.

This is to Unincorporated Wauconda residents: Check your utility bills. You may be paying for Wauconda's village sewer project. I've noticed two charges on my gas and electric bills. Make sure you check them, you shouldn't have to pay for sewers we don't have.

A standing-room only crowd devoured taste treats from a variety of area restaurants at the Victory Hospital Foundation's 1997 Chef Cuisine benefit, held Sept. 14 at Midland Country Club in Wadsworth.

While guests sampled culinary specialties from more than 30 area restaurants, attended cooking demonstrations, and took part in the annual putting contest at the benefit, a select panel of judges review the offerings of all participating restaurants. Each restaurant's fare was judged on taste, creativity and preservation of the food and staff. While the decision was difficult to make, in the end the judges made awards in three categories: Soups, Salads, Appetizers; Entrees; and Desserts.

In its first year as part of the Chef Cuisine benefit, Mangia Trattoria of Kenosha, Wis. received first place honors in the Soups, Salads, Appetizers category. Second place went to Illinois Beach Resort in Zion and Rain Forest Café in Gurnee received the third place award.

Midlane Country Club received the first place award in the Entrees category. Pepe's Mexican Restaurant in Waukegan took second place in the category for the second year in a row. Paisan's Ristorante Italiano in Gurnee and Salutos Pizza and Pasta in Gurnee, tied for third place.

A variety of sumptuous desserts earned Gerhards European Desserts in Lake Forest, the first place award in that category. Second place was awarded to The Country Squire Restaurant in Grayslake with third place going to "Beginnings" Lake County High School Technology Campus in Grayslake.

The judging panel included Chef

Phillip Hilliard of Lake Shore Country Club, Chef Scott Roberts of On Wentisa Country Club, Chef Keith D. Nelson of Birchwood Club, Chef Mark P. Bosanac instructor at the Elgin Country Club, Chef Michael D. Howe of Edgewood Valley Country Club, Chef Mike Harrington of Highland Park Country Club, Chef Klaus Reulbach, formerly of Midlane Country Club and the Hilton O'Hare), Chef James Lovell III, Chef David Jarvis of the Chicago Club, Chef Steven Maurant, Chef Bennet Mulé of the Baha Beach Club, and Chef Michael Paulsen of the Country Club. The dozens of restaurants which participated in the Victory Hospital Foundation's Chef Cuisine Benefit, donated their services in support of the HealthReach Clinic, which provides routine healthcare for people in need in Lake County.

Chef Claude Hagood's sumptuous desserts were one of the stars of the Victory Hospital Foundation's Chef Cuisine Benefit. The Country Squire's Chef Claude is presented with a second place medal in the desserts category by Victory Memorial Hospital President Tim Harrington.—Submitted photo

Lake County meningitis case not related to others in Chicago area

The Lake County Health Dept. announced that a recently diagnosed case of bacterial meningitis in a Lake County resident is not related to others in Chicago and the suburbs. "There has been a lot of coverage of meningitis cases in Chicago, DuPage County and Will County," said Dale Galassie, executive director of the health department. "We want to assure people that the current case in Lake County, a 23 year old male, is not related to any of the other cases."

Thus far this year, Lake County has experienced three cases of bacterial meningitis, including the above case. These, too, are not related and have been spread out through the year. The number of cases this year is actually slightly below the usual Lake County incidence of this disease.

While bacterial meningitis is a serious and potentially deadly disease, it is not easily transmitted from person to person. In fact, many healthy people may have been exposed to it during our lifetime, but our systems have developed resistance.

Transmission of meningitis occurs through direct contact with nose and throat secretions. These include coughing or sneezing directly in the face of others, kissing on the mouth, or sharing drinking glasses or utensils. The bacteria is not spread by casual contact, such as just being in the same room as another person.

Symptoms begin with a sudden onset of fever and headache, possibly a stiff neck, and, later, a rash. Persons who are concerned with these symptoms should contact their family doctor.

Risk of transmission can be reduced by practicing good personal hygiene: wash hands often, cover sneezes and coughs, and do not share straws, cups, eating utensils or toothbrushes.

"Above all, we do not want people to be concerned about an 'outbreak,'" said Galassie.

"These have been isolated cases with no further spread of the disease."

October declared 'Domestic Violence Awareness Month'

Municipalities throughout Lake and northern Cook counties have been asked to join in officially recognizing October as Domestic Violence Awareness Month by the executive director of A Safe Place, Phyllis DeMott.

"Each October the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence tries to build public awareness of the pervasiveness of the problem of domestic abuse while alerting the public to services and intervention that can assist women," said DeMott in her appeal to community leaders from Highland Park to Antioch.

"We want to encourage community responsibility for recognizing that domestic violence is not confined to any group or groups of people but crosses all economic, racial, and societal lines and that it severely impacts not just the women and their children but society as a whole."

With the support of the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence and A Safe Place, Gov. Jim Edgar has already issued a statewide proclamation recognizing recent revisions and expansion of Illinois laws to protect victims of domestic violence and naming October Domestic Violence Awareness Month for Illinois.

DeMott urged local governing bodies to recognize the work done by domestic violence programs and to take a stand against personal abuse against women

A Safe Place emergency shelter and crisis center serves victims from Lake, northern Cook and McHenry counties.

The agency received 3,634 crisis calls from area women last year and provided 10,043 nights of shelter. Its comprehensive program includes individual and group counseling, court advocacy for women seeking orders of protection, children's counseling and prevention education programs for schools. A 24-hour Help Line can be reached at 249-4450.

Video conference offers training for soup kitchen volunteers

The faces of hunger in the United States include those of children, pregnant women, elderly, and the chronically ill—all of whom have different food requirements. Providing this diverse clientele with a safe, nutritious and acceptable meal can be a challenge for food banks, soup kitchens, meals on wheels and other food assistance programs. That's why it's the focus of a local workshop planned in conjunction with a national video conference from Purdue University. "Safe Food for the Hungry '97" will be offered Tuesday, Oct. 7 from 1 to 3 p.m. by the Univ. of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, 100 S. Hwy. 45 in Grayslake.

"The program will stress the importance of food choice for a variety of reasons, such as nutritional needs, health status, religious or ethnic background, limited knowledge, personal preference or lack of equipment," commented Willie Burgess, Purdue Extension specialist in foods and nutrition. "For instance some people might not know how to prepare dried beans. Also, some people may not have a stove or refrigerator, so it does no good for a food bank to give those folks foods that require cooking and refrigeration. In terms of food safety, small children and infants, the elderly and the immunocompromised have to have a safe food supply because they are particularly at risk of serious illness from food-borne microorganisms.

The intended audience for the program is food bank, food pantry, soup kitchen and other emergency feeding program directors, staff and volunteers. County health department officials are also encouraged to attend.

"Safe Food for the Hungry '97" is sponsored by the Purdue and Univ. of Florida Cooperative Extension Services in collaboration with Washington State Univ. and Oregon State Univ. with partial funding provided by USDA-CREES Food Safety and Quality Initiative grant, and the Indiana Family and Social Services Administration.

There is no charge to attend the video conference. Contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 223-8627 for additional information.

Mundelein chief may make run for sheriff

By SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

Among the names popping up at the Lake County Democratic Nominating Committee to run against Republican Sheriff Gary Del Re is Mundelein Police Chief Raymond J. Rose.

Rose: County's next top cop?

Rose is one of at least two individuals who have expressed interest in speaking with the committee about running in 1998.

Rose, 50, has served as Mundelein's police chief for five years, and before that served 25 years with the Elk Grove Village Police Department, leaving in September 1992 as deputy chief.

Although Rose did not want to speak on the record about what could happen, he did say he has talked about the possibility with the nominating committee.

"I have been involved in some preliminary discussions with these people," Rose said.

Chief: 'Village, forest preserves safe'

Homeless man held in slaying

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Residents of Lindenhurst are still in shock as details regarding the death of a senior citizen at the hands of a homeless teen continue to unfold.

Gertrude Eichner, 62, of Lindenhurst, was found dead on Sunday, Sept. 28 at approximately 2:53 a.m. in her home at 131 Rose Tree Lane. According to police reports, she was stabbed in the head and neck with scissors more than 60 times.

Charged with first degree murder is William T. Conner, 18, who has lived in the Antioch area, but was currently living nearby in McDonald Woods, a 296-acre Lake County Forest Preserve.

According to Lindenhurst Chief of Police Jack McKeever, the suspect was interviewed by investigators and made a spontaneous statement of possible complicity in the homicide. Conner allegedly told investigators, "I'm the person you're looking for and I did everything."

Responding to a Lindenhurst Police Department request for assistance were the Lake Villa Police Department, Fox Lake Police Department, Antioch Police Department, Lake County Sheriffs Department, and Illinois State Police. Initial investigation for a suspect was assisted by K-9 units and State Police Air-One Helicopter investigators.

The murder investigation initiated ed by the Lindenhurst Police Department has been turned over to the Lake County Major Crimes Task Force. The Task Force assigned 17 criminal investigators and several evidence technicians to the crime scene.

According to McKeever, the stated motivation for entering the house was to steal Eichner's automobile.

McKeever said that the killing is a tremendous tragedy for the family and the village, especially in the context of Lindenhurst being a low-crime suburban community. The fact that a suspect for the killing was living in the forest preserve is not a matter of concern to him, and he thinks it should not be a concern for community residents. He had no reservations about his family using the preserve and continuing to observe the same cautions as before this incident.

"We haven't had a murder in over 25 years," McKeever said. He noted that it was his D.A.R.E. Program officers that initially responded to the scene.

On Monday, those officers were back in school focusing on personal security and safety issues with children. For both children and the Village as a whole, McKeever said, "there is a loss of innocence with something like this."

Roy Johnson, superintendent of rangers for the Lake County Forest Preserve District, said that the forest preserves are safe areas. "We do not have a high crime rate," he said. For the most part, people are in the preserves for the recreational opportunities.

Hitting it big for Holly

More than $1,500 raised to aid baby

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

Homeruns for Holly scored.

More than $1,500 has been raised to aid the family of 10-month-old Holly Rathunde of Round Lake Beach, through the Homeruns for Holly campaign and charity softball game held Sunday, Sept. 28 at Softball city in Hainesville and the funds are still coming in.

Several members of the community, along with employees from Lakeland Publishers and WKRS/WXLC, were on-hand to watch as the radio all-stars downed the news crew 12-6.

"She is one lucky little girl," said Lynn Rathunde of the event. "If only she knew how special she is, how the community has rallied to help her."

The Rathundes are creating a scrapbook for Holly with news articles and other mementos of the efforts to aid her. Holly was born three months premature and suffers from pulmonary stenosis, which is a thickening of the lower right valve of the heart.

"What it means is that her heart has to work too hard," Lynn said. The condition, coupled with her prematurity, has caused the doctors to caution the Rathundes that Holly's immune system is not as strong as other 10-month-olds.

"They have told us that her getting a cold can be a major illness," Lynn said. "Her long-term health will be fine, but for now we need to take extra precautions."

Little Holly will now have to have the valve replaced early next year. The operation will cost $100,000 to 300,000.

"We just can't thank everyone enough," said Rathunde. "The outpouring from the community has been just unbelievable."

One of the most touching events of the evening was the help offered by two out-of-towners.

Jeff Ross and Paul Stanley, a pair of professional softball players, were at Softball City for a tournament earlier in the day. When they heard about the charity softball game they wanted to get involved.

"When you hear about something like this you have to help," said Ross of Burlington, N.C. "Just look at her, how can you not help out a child like this."

ROSE: Considering run for sheriff

Mary Ellen Vanderventer, Lake County Recorder, was mum on who the other individual, or individuals, were, only saying there is more than one.

Vanderventer said the committee is in no hurry to announce who its candidates are at this point.

"This is early October and it is very early," she said.

"We know who 99 percent of the Republican candidates are going to be in '98," she said. "They do not know any of our players and we like that position right now."

"Out of respect for the potential candidates, and out of respect for the potential voters, this is a long season," she said, "and we do not want to make it any longer."

Del Re was appointed Sheriff by the Lake County Board in October 1996, succeeding former Sheriff Clinton O. Grinnell, who retired.

people off trails, we go in and remove them," Johnson said. The district does not allow random camping. The primary problem is juveniles who seek quiet places for their parties. Local residents call when they see fires and smoke in the preserves.

Conner had taken up residence in the forest preserve only recently according to Johnson. "This gentleman had only been there for a short time," he said. The camp he had established for himself was a tarpaulin cloth stretched across trees. "It was really, really primitive," Johnson said. Police reports described it as a blue canopy.

The investigation has been assigned to the Major Crimes Task Force at the request of the Lindenhurst Police Department. "They really proved themselves with this one," McKeever said. "It's a good example of how Lindenhurst has better protection because we can bring in experienced investigators. It's just an excellent idea of cooperation," McKeever said. "I can not praise them highly enough."

There are 38 rangers to patrol the 20,000 acres of the Lake County Forest Preserve District properties Johnson said. Rangers patrol preserves on foot, bicycle, horseback, snowmobile, and in vehicles. Preserves are closed at night and have gates.

Lake County Republicans vote for unity

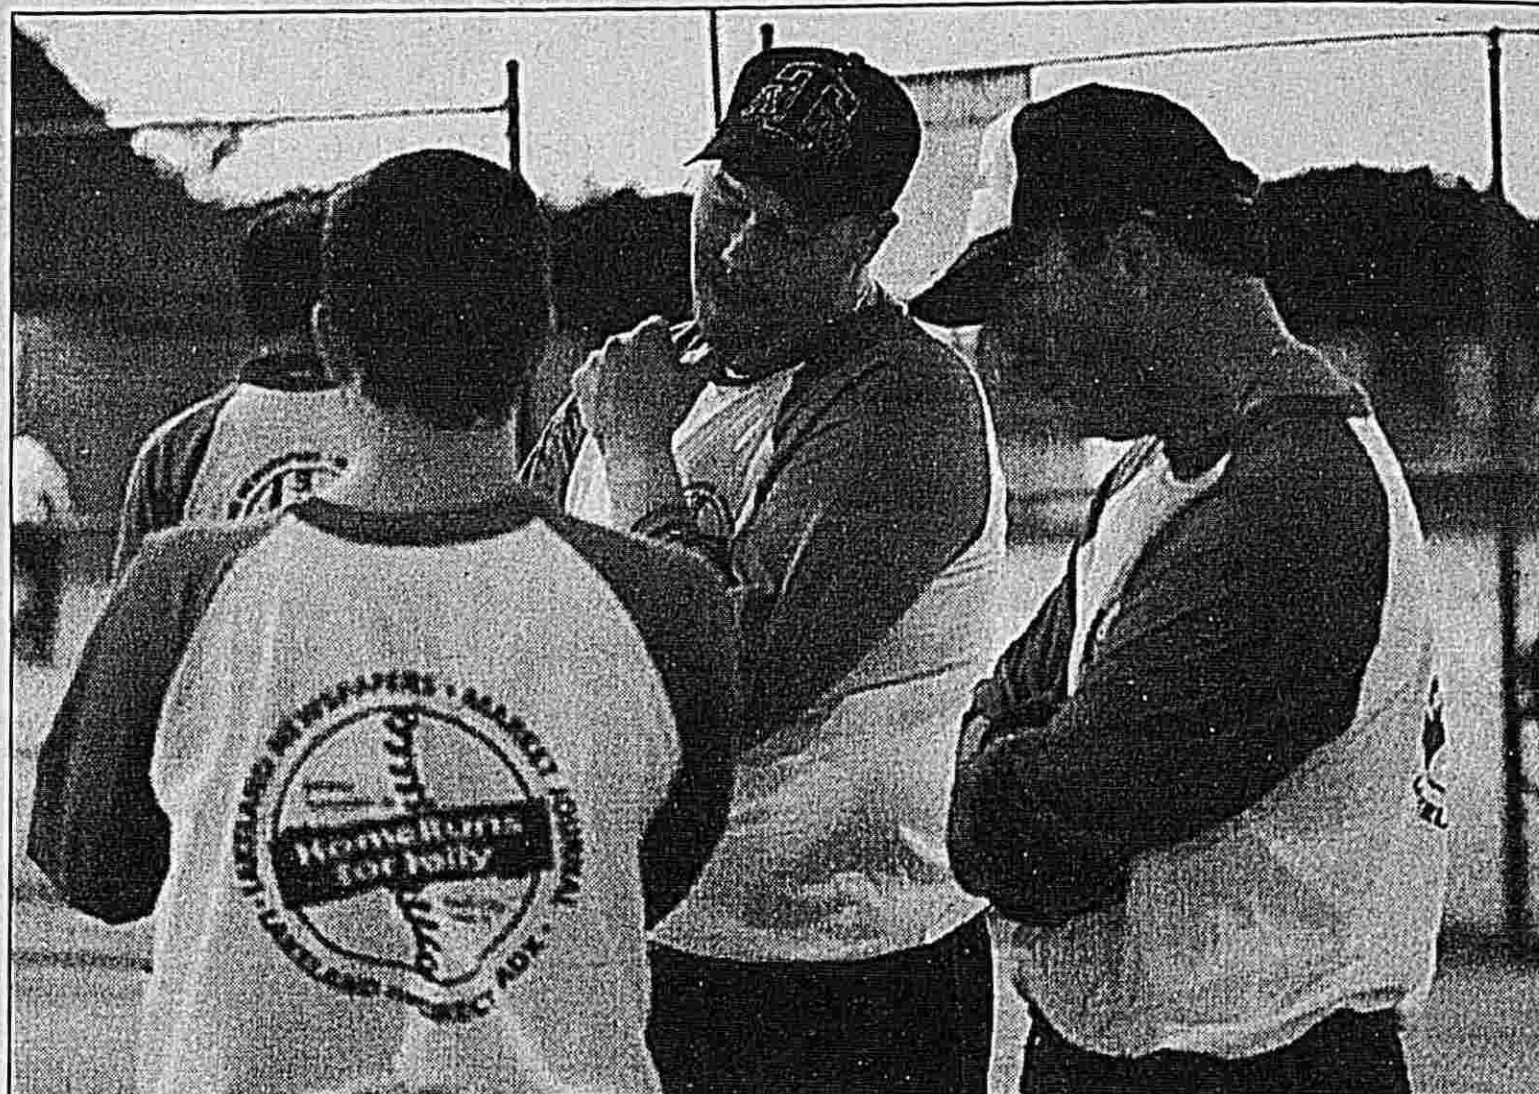

The Executive Committee of the Lake County Republican Central Committee voted at their September monthly meeting held at Lake County Republican Headquarters in Libertyville, in support of Party Unity and against endorsements, announced Lake County Republican Chairman John E. Schulien.

"Today is a great day for the Lake County Republican Party, announced Schulien. We welcome a new day of Republican Precinct Committeeman involvement in endorsements at the local level and no endorsement by the Executive Committee. Continuing, "For the past two years, under my chairmanship, we have promised to look at our endorsement process and to address the needs of increased Republican Precinct Committeeman involvement. Our vote last night allows local input and involvement and frees our county Party to unify all candidates against their Democrat opponents in the General Election.

County Republican Co-chairman Adeline Geo-Karis echoed this though. "Our objective is to elect qualified candidates. We strongly believe that we have very qualified candidates in the Republican Party, and urge support of their candidacy."

With the vote last night, the Executive Committee will forego candidate screening sessions and endorsements on the county level. The vote, however, does not effect endorsements by individuals or by townships.

"The Lake County Republican Party is open to all who share Republican beliefs and ideals. We welcome a broad spectrum of candidates and pledge to work for their election in November, concluded Schulien.

In a team strategy session, Dave Sherman (back to camera), display advertising account executive, discusses fielding with reporter Jason King and Greg Benyak of the classified department.

HOLLY: A big hit with fans

Ross and Stanley took turns hitting homeruns and donated $10 for each homerun they hit. They both also gave generously through the purchase of raffle tickets.

"I'm just glad to be able to help out," Stanley, of Union City, Pa., said. "This is a great cause and a great idea."

Jennifer Smith of Lake Villa won the 50/50 raffle pot and donated the winnings back to the family. She has known the family for many years and said she just wanted to help out.

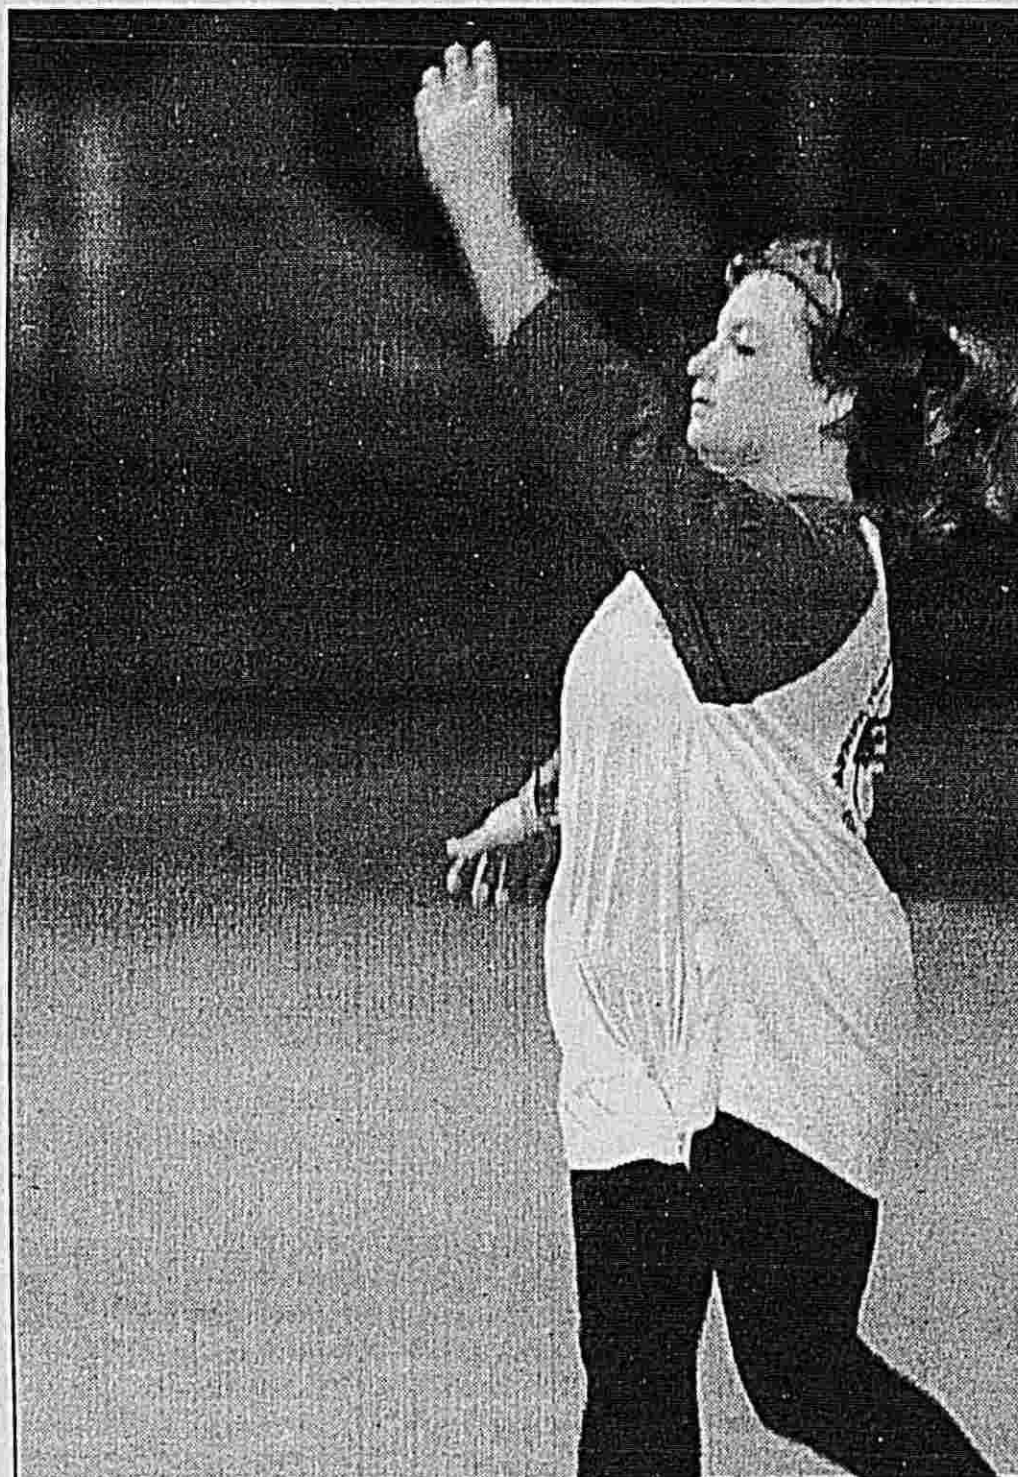

Rathunde said several high school friends and neighbors of the couple came out to the event to cheer the family on.

"It was great," Rathunde said. "A lot of our neighbors didn't know about our circumstances, it is not the kind of thing you go around talking about. We were thrilled to see so many friends who cared."

Otis Carter, owner of Softball City, donated the use of the field and proceeds from the gate to the cause.

Several area businesses donated prizes for the raffle including: Rainforest Cafe, Planet Hollywood, Hastings Lake YMCA, First American Bank-Lake Villa, Crescendo Salon, WXLG/WKRS, Babaloons and Somethings Brewing.

Donations are still being accepted at First of America Bank in Grayslake or by mail c/o Lakeland Publishers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030. Cans and homerun cards are available at several area businesses as well.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

RV ordinance on agenda

Mundelein—After more years of discussion than anyone probably thought would happen, Mundelein officials appear primed to vote on amending a 1951 ordinance regarding the parking and storage of recreational vehicles on private property.

The vote will take place during the board's Monday, Oct. 6 meeting, even though members of the newly formed Mundelein Boat and RV Owners Association tried to dissuade the vote from taking place by suggesting they work with the officials on finding common ground.

The proposed ordinance would forbid recreation vehicles, such as boats, jet skis and motor homes, from being parked in the front yard or side yard, and only allow them to be parked in back yards.

Mayor Marilyn Sindles said she was against reopening the discussions again after two and one-half years of talks. "I am unwilling to start this whole planning process again," Sindles said.

Homecoming helps a child

Wauconda—This week marks the return of an annual tradition at Wauconda High School, a tradition held by nearly every high school in the country. However, this year's Homecoming has taken a different twist, one in a giving mode. Students and staff members have banded together in fund-raisers to benefit Alexandria Paris, the 5-year-old girl who suffered from cancer and is starting to become a poster child in Wauconda.

Three bake sales have been scheduled this week, one which already took place on Sept. 30. The others will be held on Friday, Oct. 3, during Stunt Night, and on Saturday, Oct. 5, during the football games which start at 11 a.m., said Cara Corelli, president of the WHS student council. Two tickets to Six Flags Great America's "Fright Fest," which were donated by the Dominick's Fresh Store in Wauconda, will be raffled.

"We want to do anything," she said. "We want to help out the family, whether it be around the house or anything else."

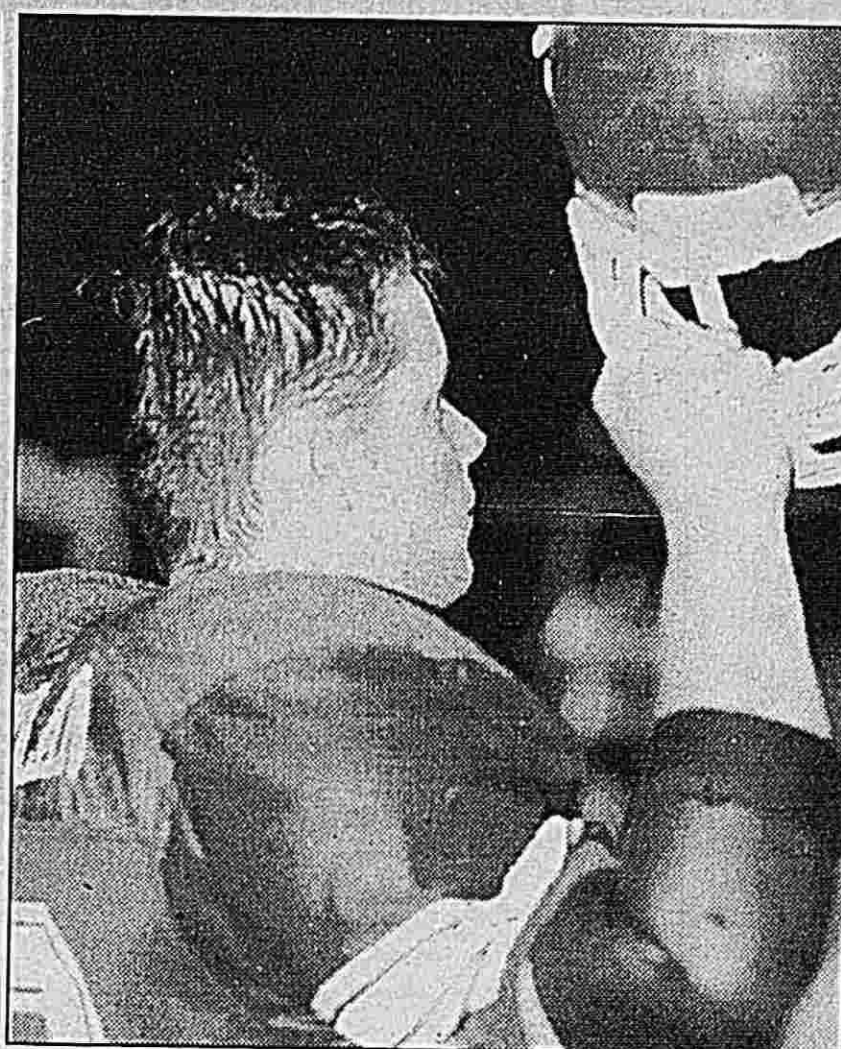

Referendum Committee Forms

Lake Villa—A committee to present the case for passage of a Lake Villa School District 41 referendum has been formed. The president of the committee is Steve Volkman. "We're working hard to get the non-registered voters registered," he said. "There are over 800 unregistered parents."

He said, "If they're not a registered voter, they can go to the office of any of the public schools, where there is a register in each office as well as the township office, and register to vote."

District 41 seeks $14.7 million to build a new elementary school for grades kindergarten through grade 5; to add 10 classrooms to Palombi School, grades six through eight; to repair, improve and provide equipment for B.J. Hooper School and Pleviak School; and, to expand transportation facilities.

"In 1996, the district passed an education fund referen-

Teachers approve contract

Grayslake—Teachers have approved a tentative 5-year contract between Grayslake District 46 and the union, with a vote of 154 in favor and 11 opposed. The board of education will be voting on whether to approve the contract at their meeting Oct. 6.

The parties came to the tentative agreement in the early morning of Saturday Sept. 20, after all night negotiations. District 46 teachers have been without a contract since June 30.

Negotiations went sour in April and in Sept. a federal mediator had to be brought in for negotiations. There was a strong possibility of a teachers strike up until the recent negotiation sessions.

dum which will cover all personnel and student materials costs," Simon stated.

School District 41 estimates that the taxpayer of a $150,000 home will pay about $72 the first year. Simon stated the school district expects costs in subsequent years would decrease, based on increased district property values, due to new homes.

Safety stickers distributed Oct. 6

Antioch—A group of private and public volunteer groups and public sector agencies has come together to distribute two special child safety stickers. The stickers alert emergency rescue personnel to the presence and identity of a child.

The We Care for Kids window decals and CHAD stickers will be distributed on Oct. 6 by several local businesses.

Participating stores include: Antioch Jewel, Piggly Wiggly, Baskin-Robbins, Video Empire, Antioch Public Library District, and local day care centers such as The Early Learning Center, Peppermint Stick Pre-school, and Camp Crayon. Participating schools will include Lotus School, Emmons School, Grass Lake School, Antioch Grade School, and Faith Evangelical Lutheran School.

CHAD is an acronym for Children Have An iDentity. It refers to a program to affix child identification information to the right corner under the cushion or center back of a child safety seat. Information on the sticker guides emergency medical personnel to parents if no one else is able to identify the child.

CHAD sticker distribution is a cooperative project by the Antioch Junior Woman's Club, the Antioch Rescue Squad, the Antioch Fire Department, the Antioch Police Department, and the North Lake County Emergency Medical Services System.

Event center group meets

Gurnee—There could be a touch of Chicago's United Center or perhaps baseball's Oriole Park at Camden Yards, or perhaps a concept or two borrowed from an Olympic Village look.

All are possibilities in future planning for one of the last large tracks of land in Gurnee - 136 acres north of Washington Street and west of Six Flags Great America. The area will come under careful review from a 26-member event center blue ribbon committee which held its first of several meetings.

The same Kansas City architectural firm which designed Baltimore's baseball park, Devine, Flawn and Yeager, is part of Prism Development's team of experts exploring uses. An Hawaii based architectural firm is also involved.

Jon Rodgers of Chicago-based Prism explained his firm is working under a resolution from village trustees as well as contractual arrangements with land owner Time Warner, owners of Six Flags Great America.

"Quality-of-life is not just a phrase for us. It is something we really respect. We want to be responsive to the community," Rodgers said.

Rodgers pledged the fiscal impact would be positive to the village and schools. The precise figures will be divulged at future committee meetings.

1998 commended students named

The principal, Rev. Robert Carroll O. Carm., of Carmel High School announced that the following Carmel students have been named Commended Students in the 1998 National Merit Scholarship Program:

Christopher Boniquit, Gurnee; Kevin Brandl, Grayslake; Nicholas Burke, Lake Zurich; Ricardo Davis-Zapata, Wauconda; Elizabeth Gage, Gurnee; Matthew Hamilton, Mundelein; John Koch, Round Lake Beach; Kevin McKinney, Antioch; John O' Malley, Buffalo Grove; Monica Roach, Libertyville; Silvana Rodriguez, Mundelein; Jonathan Schmitz, Vernon Hills; Megan Smith, Waukegan; Lisa Tyminski, Lake Villa; Erin Uloth, Libertyville; Patrick Waller, Waukegan; Patrick Williams, Lake Zurich; Cheryl Wilson, McHenry; Lauren Wilson, Libertyville.

About 35,000 Commended Students throughout the nation are being honored for their exceptional academic promise. Commended students placed among the top five percent of more than a million students who entered the 1998 Merit Program by taking the 1996 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

"The Merit Program is extremely competitive," commented an NMSC spokesperson, "and the young men and women named Commended Students can be proud of their designation."

Safety for Asian victims of domestic violence

"I got fed and my children were fed. We had restful sleep after a long time—they helped me and I seeked it."

An Apna Ghar client wrote these lines in gratitude for the shelter and social services she and her children received as victims of domestic violence.

Apna Ghar, the first United States transitional shelter and social agency serving Asian victims of domestic violence, was founded in 1989 in response to hotline calls reporting a high incidence of domestic violence abandonment, child abuse and neglect, sexual and criminal assault among the South Asian ethnic minority communities settled in Metropolitan Chicago. Marriages were still arranged by the parents and young girls were subjected to the onslaught of the entire groom's family expectations of perfection. Due to socio-cultural differences such as the Hindi or Urdu language, traditional dress, the need for vegetarian and other special cuisine, religion, family structures and values, the Asian-American women and families were reluctant to avail themselves of the services offered by mainstream shelters and organizations. They were terrified of being deported without their children. They couldn't speak the language, having been isolated for years by their abusers. What a relief it was to find that Apna Ghar could help them with translations, legal advocacy, child care, job training, transportation, counseling and eventual independent housing.

Chicago and its outlying communities have an opportunity to make a difference in these family's lives. On Oct. 4, amidst "Autumn Hues," supporters will tour the 1914 Venetian-style Cuneo Mansion full of master paintings and rich antique furnishings. The deer park, formal gardens and exotic plant conservatory will be open for promenading. An elegant champagne buffet served around the pool will be followed by the crowning event—a performance of the graceful Austrian Temple Lipizzan Horses.

Mail checks to Apna Ghar, Inc. 4753 N. Broadway, Suite 518, Chicago, IL 60640 or purchase at the door. For more information, call (773) 334-0173 or contact Prem Wadhvani at (847) 362-1415.

Will new preserve spark era of growth?

Citizens who are concerned that Lake County is being overrun by development can take heart in the purchase by the Forest Preserve of 533 acres in Wauconda Township. The property, including both open farm fields and forested areas, is the district's biggest purchase since the 534-acre Sun Lake Forest Preserve near Antioch was acquired in 1990.

Both Board President Robert Buhai (D-Highland Park) and Steven Messerli, executive director of the district, view the new preserve lands as heading the district in a new direction. To "coin" a phrase, Forest Preserve commissioners have a "kinder and gentler" approach to land acquisition now than officials did only a few years ago.

Contrary to immediate speculation about district finances, the cupboard isn't bare despite the heavy draw down on the $20 million bond issue for land acquisition approved by voters in 1993. Through internal fund transfers, similar to the method used to raise funds for the new Thunderhawk Golf Course now under construction near Zion, and interest income, funds still can be utilized for land acquisition. The Forest Preserve District, for instance, would be well advised to pursue acquisition of 160 acres in Avon Township fronting on Long Lake that Round Lake Beach officials see as beneficial open space for their growing community and room for much-needed storm water detention.

Still, another bond issue unquestionably is required if Lake County is to attain a park lands equivalency now benefiting Cook and DuPage counties. Buhai pragmatically sees a 1999 referendum as a reality. Plans are being made to present a survey to county residents much like was done before the last bond issue passage. Forest preserve officials talk of 40 acres of public lands for every 1,000 citizens as a workable goal. That would put Lake County holdings well over 250,000 acres.

We'll make a prediction that a new round of land acquisition would be well received by the voting public. Let's get started.

South CLC campus sensible for everyone

Trustees of the College of Lake County long have coveted a presence in south Lake County. They wanted a spot so badly they were willing to pay the above market rate of $310,000 per acre for a 22 1/2 acre site on Rte. 21 a half mile north of Rte. 45. That works out to a cost of more than $7 million for land and a couple of buildings.

After an aggressive building program at the Grayslake campus early this decade, the school doesn't possess the financial resources to launch a building program. The existing buildings can be utilized for teaching purposes for the time being. The CLC Center in Highland Park will be moved to the new site.

While board chairman Richard Anderson emphasized the desire to enhance service to a highly populated area, school officials had other practical considerations in elevating CLC's profile in south Lake County. They wanted to get closer to all the office parks in Vernon Township and they didn't want to chance another school moving in on CLC turf. Not the least of their concerns was travel problems encountered by south county students that would have adverse affects on enrollment at the main campus.

The south county move is good for CLC.

VIEWPOINT

From Paris (Wis.) with (Allendale) love

When directors of Allendale School set out six months ago to replace a president, they vowed a far-reaching search. Turned out they went all the way to Paris in selecting Mary Shahbazian as new leader of the $17 million social agency that is a national model for residential care of troubled youth.

Paris turned out to be Paris, Wis., in Kenosha County, a short commute to the Lake Villa campus, Allendale's home for the past 100 years.

The new chief executive is returning to the school she took to her heart as a 20-year-old when she landed a summer job during college. "I was swimming at Cedar Lake and noticed the water tower. I wondered if they had any jobs. They did. That's how I first became acquainted with Allendale."

Shahbazian, a career social worker, promises to evoke a much different management style than her predecessor, Katherine Collins, a Wisconsin attorney who resigned abruptly last winter after budgetary differences with directors. "Allendale grows on you," remarked Shahbazian, who applied for the president's post upon learning that Collins had resigned.

Eating crow

The Rollins Rd. bike path had all the earmarks of another Lake County Div. of Transportation boondoggle when plans were unveiled four years ago by the then Public Service Committee Chair Ed Fojtik.

At the time, the project was looked upon as a sop for Fojtik's reelection to the County Board. Your correspondent didn't view the route between Fox Lake and Ingleside past a sewage treatment works and a cement plant as becoming scenery for bikers, joggers and walkers. How wrong!

The path, constructed with $248,000 in county funds and a federal grant, has turned out to be extremely popular with all age groups. Construction including landscaping block, fencing and blacktop is a welcome alternative to cattails and rusting signs half submerged in a slough. Fojtik didn't win reelection, but he deserves credit for spearheading a worthwhile public improvement. I'll eat crow on this one.

Charging ahead

County Clerk Willard Helander isn't going to take any Democratic guff about office mismanagement in her campaign for reelection. The Libertyville Republican relishes telling "horror stories" about the office she inherited in 1994 from a Democrat. "When I took over, we had one computer in the office. And it wasn't even plugged in," Helander relates to GOP audiences.

Follow the money

The Veep's whirlwind visit to Highland Park Monday underscores the pathway of new era Democrats. Vice President Al Gore came to the county for one reason—to raise money. Has U.S. Senator Carol Moseley-Braun ever come here when the almighty dollar wasn't involved? Whatever happened to "old time" Democrats like U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, whose yeoman service helped save Great Lakes Naval Training Center and U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, who visited schools and environmental projects when he came to the county?

No big deal

Assistant Village Manager Craig Malin of Vernon Hills didn't click his heels when the College of Lake County announced the purchase of more than 22 acres in the village on Milwaukee Ave. for another campus. Malin grouched that CLC doesn't pay taxes so Vernon Hills will lose revenue. Is Vernon Hills a hostile environment for education?

Stop business rebates

I read with interest that two more car dealers have their sights set on moving to Gurnee. Just what we need. Of course, they are looking for a similar tax break that the village granted to Rosen. Once you start something, everyone wants a piece of the action. It won't end with car dealers either.

There's a bit of irony. The tax rebate promised to village taxpayers (before the village election) just could not be done legally, but somehow this rebate for a big business can

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

'Filthy' language has no place in public meetings

An audience member at last week's Libertyville Township meeting, who is clearly a dyed-in-the-wool supporter of current township supervisor RT. "Mike" Graham, took the opportunity, three times, to make disparaging remarks directed at trustee Lynne Moran.

We can assure you, the language was certainly not "G Rated," and the individual was not talking about an itch. After Moran heard him the third time, and called him on it, he suddenly couldn't recall what had poured from his mouth seconds ago.

Graham, who lost control of the meeting in a hurry at that point, said he couldn't hear what the individual cared to share with the class. When Moran asked Graham if he was going to allow that kind of talk to take place at his meeting, Graham had nothing to say.

Moran told party lines she would be talking to the township attorney about possible legal recourse against the individual, who ran against her in the election when Moran won her township seat.

We've got a better suggestion Lynne, give Graham an early Christmas gift. A book, some light reading if you will. It's called "Robert's Rules of Order."

Needs help

Illinois Treasurer Judy Barr Topinka has put out a call for a volunteer to serve as Lake County coordinator for her 1998 re-election bid. This could be a "cruise" position. Topinka is expected to run without opposition in the primary.

Schulien happy

Now that Republican hon-

chos have ruled "no dice" on party endorsements for the primary election candidates will have to look to township organizations for party backing. The Lake County Central Republican committee voted 18-7 to discontinue the practice of conducting candidate screenings and making primary endorsements. No one is happier about this than County Chairman John Schullen, who took plenty of heat for the widely criticized 1996 selections. Party Lines learned that a few bylaws committee workers formulating a new endorsement system are sore about their wasted work. But so what?

Job transfer

Wauconda political activist Venita McConnell has been reunited with her old boss, Joel Brumlik, who is the new Winthrop Harbor Police Chief. McConnell, who will be an office aide in the police department, was an office assistant when Brumlik served as executive director of the Lake Zurich Chamber of Commerce until earlier this year.

Walking wounded

Karen Demos-Rosenthal, the former village trustee who is settling in as head of the Lake Zurich C of C, literally is among the walking wounded these days. She has one foot in a walking cast, the result of an injury suffered while "enjoying" Labor Day festivities.

Campaign strategy

County Clerk, Willard Helander, a resident of Libertyville, has adopted a "western strategy" to kick off her campaign for re-election: Helander made her first grassroots appearance before the Grant Township Republican Club and she'll hold her first fund raiser Wednesday, Oct. 15 at Fox Lake's historic Mineola Hotel. Despite jabs from State Sen. Terry Link, county Democratic chairman, Helander exudes confidence in her early campaign outings. She's no longer an unknown, like four years ago.

Long live our wacky terms of endearment

The marquee outside a real-estate office the other day, besides advertising the house of the week, congratulated a local couple on "tying the knot."

What an interesting metaphor, that old cliché comparing the marriage bond to the lacing together of ropes. It's amusing how many cutesy expressions we have coined for the looney lingo of love and marriage.

A couple's relationship may begin with a crush, then escalate to being smitten and becoming each other's sweet patootie, turtledove, snookums or main squeeze.

If they decide to commit matrimony (tie the knot) they take the plunge, march down the aisle, get hitched, are joined in holy wedlock.

After that ecstatic event, of course, the husband is referred to as the spouse, the lord and master (maybe), and the ruler of the roost (maybe).

The wife may be showered with such terms of endearment as helpmate, soul mate, the missus, and the little woman.

I wonder, however, why the husband becomes known as the other half while the wife is called the better half. No, come to think of it, I suppose that's usually an accurate assumption.

As the sharp-tongued Lady Nancy Astor said, "I married beneath me. All women do."

As marriage marches on, some husbands are referred to as "the old man" but, hopefully, no one ever calls the wife "the old lady."

As comedian Jeff Foxworthy says, "You might be a redneck if... during your wedding ceremony the minister said, 'Do you, DeWayne, take Connie to be your old lady?'"

Someone else once said, "If it weren't for marriage, men and women would have to fight with total strangers."

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

My friend Jerry Adamson poses an interesting question: "If a man goes out into a forest, where nobody is in sight, and no woman is within hearing range, and he begins to talk... is he still wrong?"

Stan and Bob

On a serious note, the Antioch community was saddened last week when, within 24 hours, two of its really nice guys died.

Stan Toton was 78, Bob Pedersen was 74. Stan operated a clothing store, Stanley's Men's Fashions, and Bob and his brother Al were partners in the Pedersen Brothers Implement Co.

They were extremely popular in Antioch and the Lakeland area beyond. They were successful businessmen and they were always pleasant and laid-back, the kind of people you'd like to have for neighbors.

I decided I should write at least this much about them after I ran into Jack Siegmeyer, who knew them well, both professionally and socially. Jack said, "I don't think a discouraging word or disparaging word was ever said about either Stan or Bob, and I never heard a discouraging or disparaging word from them. They were real gentlemen."

When someone who has mastered the art of living so well goes on to his eternal reward, I always think of Shakespeare's Prince Hamlet saying of his deceased father, the king of Denmark: "He was a man. Take him for all in all, I shall not look upon his like again."

be done.

How about the new-fangled term—performance based—as an excuse to grant tax breaks for car dealers. Isn't it true that the better the business performance, the more money they make? Do we have to give them tax breaks, too? When citizens earn more income they expect to pay more taxes, not less.

It seems to me that businesses that put a hand out looking for a deal, end up slapping the community in the face with it. We ought to kick their behinds, rather than opening up our arms.

Although I haven't been a long time resident of Gurnee, I always looked at it as a community with an excellent quality of life. Lately, people are beginning to wonder. It appears as though too much emphasis is being placed on making Gurnee the commercial capital of the Midwest. That's not what we should be about.

The citizens of Gurnee need a break from village policy-makers. Put the breaks on this over-development, commercial and otherwise. Every new development is bringing more congestion, more problems and a lesser quality of life for Gurnee residents.

Enough is enough.

Referendum doesn't add up

After passing a recent substantial tax increase for the Education Fund, Dist. 41 is again pressuring taxpayers for more. Dist. 41 Superintendent Dr. Alan Simon has been quoted as saying recently, "They (impact fees) don't come close to paying the cost." The natural question residents must be asking is why not? Some residents foolishly believed that the last increase would be spent on new classrooms. In reality, nearly all of that will be spent on pay checks.

It would seem like basic addition. New homes generate a predictable number of new students. These new students need classrooms. The land developers build and sell bedrooms for these students for handsome profit, yet the taxpayers are continually asked to subsidize the new classrooms needed for these same new students. Developers and home builders walk away with the profit on these bedrooms. Left behind are crowded roads, service shortages, traffic gridlock and overrun schools. And then the residents are asked to pay even more taxes. What is wrong with this picture?

Dist. 41 is merely the latest example of a growing list of school districts which has failed in its duty to negotiate a fair and reasonable impact fee from developers. This district will again go to the property owners hoping to have existing homeowners foot the bill for expanding the schools to house the new students coming from the new homes. For some reason, Supt. Simon must believe the residents of Dist. 41 have more money to spend for his new classrooms than land developers. If residents continue to pass the tax increase referendums, he just might be right. Only when the residents say "NO" will school districts begin bargaining in good faith with developers to recover the full costs these new homes impose on the community.

Support Libertyville Township open space drive

We have noted with interest Libertyville Township's call for the issuance of new open space bonds.

The Lake Forest Open Lands Assn., a 30 year old land preservation group, supports these efforts for many reasons.

Most people are familiar with the "soft" reasons for preserving open space: environmental protection, quality of life, floodplain management, and scenic, recreational and educational values.

Most people are not aware, however, of the compelling "hard" reason to preserve open space: the control of property taxes. Since about 1970, there has been a growing awareness that local population growth and real estate development do not necessarily provide net fiscal benefits to local governments. Providing infrastructure and other services to accommodate new development may cost more than the development generates in property tax and other revenues.

In 1995 Open Lands and the City of Lake Forest jointly engaged Clarion Associates to test this hypothesis locally, looking at the fiscal impacts on Lake Forest if the rest of the vacant land therein was developed. Clarion's findings indicated the concept that full residential build-out, even in a town with a large tax base such as Lake Forest, would result in a net financial loss to the community through increased property taxes.

To counter this situation is politically difficult, however, as the solution is to invest substantial money now to save a community an eternity of ever-higher taxes.

This is a hard argument to make in the face of very slow and incremental tax escalations which most people don't notice.

The Libertyville Township Board appears to have both the political will and the legal means to undertake this effort. Lake Forest Open Lands applauds this effort and supports Libertyville Township's new initiative wholeheartedly.

Salute land presentation

The League of Women Voters of the Libertyville/Mundelein Area would like to congratulate the Libertyville Township board on its recent decision to preserve and restore 80 acres of Open Space on Butterfield. At no cost to taxpayers, this land will be returned to what it looked like in the 1860s. A wetland mitigation bank will be established that should earn the Township enough money to create trails through the site if it decides to do so. In addition, a lifetime protection of the property as restored open land with oak savannas, prairie grasses and planting and various wetlands will be created. No longer will there be a threat of other organizations placing buildings on the land.

This project will become an example to researchers around the state as well as the nation on how land can be preserved. Congratulations Libertyville Township on your futuristic thinking and action.

Evergreens add winter interest to landscapes

Does your landscape look a bit boring from December to March each year? If it does, here are a few suggestions to add winter interest to your landscape.

Evergreens like the Taxus (Yew) specie are used extensively in foundation as well as patio gardens and can be attractive planted in mass or a hedge. Try to use some broadleaf evergreens in combination with the yews to add texture and color to your evergreen gardens. Some nice varieties of Boxwood are the Asiatic, and Wintergreen, and both are hardy for the Lake County growing zone. The Phododendron's also add winter interest in the landscape. By using these plants in combination with some lower type evergreen groundcovers like the Vinca Minor, Pachysandra, and Euonymus varieties a layered effect is achieved in your gardens.

Groundcovers always seem to help connect plants together giving the garden a nice flow from one area to the next.

If your not a fan of the Taxus specie, there are many varieties of the Juniperus that will add interest to your gardens in the winter. Junipers range in size from 6-inches in height to 25-feet tall and spreading from 3- to 12-feet in width. They also vary in color from bright blue to grey to lime green, and certain varieties like the Juniperus Youngstown change in color from season to season showing dark green in the spring/summer then turning to purple in the fall/winter seasons.

The Colorado Blue and Green Spruce as well as the Serbian Spruce, Norway Spruce, Concolor Fir, Austrian Pine, White Pine all add winter interest to any garden and often times, provide a great screening in one's landscape.

There are many varieties of weeping, prostrate, and artistic type evergreens which can be used in one's garden to create year-round interest, especially in the winter.

Deciduous plants also can add interest in the winter months. The form of a weeping Crab is beautiful to witness in an entry-way or patio garden in the winter. Certain cultivars of the Malus (crab) have persistent berries that seem to glow on a cloudy winter's day. One of our favorites is the Sugartyme which shows a bright red berry that persists on the plant all winter.

The ornate bark of the Betula nigra Heritage (river birch) is a real show off in the winter. The little used, but extremely ornate bark of the Acer triflorum (three-flowered maple) shows an outer peeling bark of tannish-brown in color with the inner bark of the tree being a light orange to white. There are so many plants that can add winter interest to your gardens!

The many varieties of the ornamental grasses show detailed plumage and wonderful leaf texture in a winter landscape. They move so gracefully in a breeze and catch the light like no other plant in the landscape.

Form, texture, color, fruit interest, and bark interest all add interest to the landscape, and are magnified in the winter. By combining these elements in the landscape, your gardens will be a pleasure to view each season. Remember, fall is a great time to plant

Creating kitchen accessories with tile

Unique kitchen accessories are a lot of fun to own, but sometimes awfully expensive to purchase. An alternative you may not have considered is to make your own.

One of the best materials to consider if you're ready to launch into designing your own countertop accessories is ceramic tile accentuated with colored grouts.

Ceramic tile adds texture to any project, and colored groups introduce an unexpected splash of color to complement or provide a contrast to your kitchen decor.

Of course, ceramic tile comes in thousands of colors, textures and sizes. But you may not know that grouts also are available in many colors, from pinks to peaches to blues and greens as well as shades of white, tan, terra cotta and gray. That means the grout can pick up highlights from other kitchen materials.

So if yours is an all-white kitchen with emerald green highlights, for instance, you can create white tile accessories with emerald green grout.

Some potential projects might include cutting boards, cookbook holders and plant boxes. All you need is ceramic tile, ceramic tile adhesive and grout, exterior grade plywood, perhaps some hardwood, miscellaneous hardware and your imagination.

Following are several easy projects to get you going:

- Serving tray—always handy for carrying food to the table or glasses to the patio, a serving tray is an easy and useful project that doubles as decoration when displayed on the counter. This one uses three colors of 2 by 2 inch ceramic tile and a fourth color in grout to pick up colors and textures from the counters, floors and cabinets. The wood frame can be stained or painted to match or contrast with cabinets and woodwork.

- Utensil holder—functional art for the countertop, this rugged utensil holder puts bullnose tile to a unique use. For 6 by 6 inch bullnose tiles cover a simple plywood box. Colored grout accents each corner to pick up hues in the tile or other colors in the kitchen.

Plant bulbs now for blooming colors next spring

With blustery winter weather just a few short weeks away, planning next year's garden is probably not on the top of everyone's to do list, but a little foresight in the way of planting spring bulbs now can go a long, and colorful, way come next spring.

"Now is the time to plan spring bulbs," said Gurnee Home Depot Gardening Expert Steve Solver. "Bulbs such as tulips, daffodils and hyacinth need a period of extreme cold to stimulate their growth, and should be put in the ground in the fall."

To ensure your garden flourishes, plant several bulbs each year to compensate for those which either stop blooming after a few years or fall prey to rot or wild animals.

In planting bulbs, there is one basic rule of thumb—duplicate the way plants grow naturally. Loose, informal groupings are your best bet for an attractive garden.

"When planting, broadcast your bulbs all over the garden," said Solver. "There is no such thing as planting too many bulbs." Solver does, however, caution gardeners to keep track of which areas are already planted to avoid accidentally damaging old bulbs while planting new ones.

The secret to a lush, full-looking garden is to plant bulbs in layers. This will ensure an abundance of blooms all season long. With some thoughtful planting, you will be able to enjoy blooms from March to June. Larger bulbs, such as tulips and daffodils, should be planted first and deeper into the soil. Smaller, earlier-blooming bulbs, such as crocus, can be planted on top. The early blooming bulbs will bring color to your garden at the same time the foliage of the lower bulbs begins to appear.

In addition to planting bulbs, fall is also the time when you should dig up and store those sensitive bulbs that cannot withstand winter's cold.

After the first frost, you should dig up your dahlia, gladiolus, begonia and canna bulbs. Use a spading fork to gently remove the bulbs from the soil. Next, inspect them for signs of disease and throw out those that are affected.

Let dahlia bulbs dry out until the soil falls away, then place them in dry paper bags or vermiculite and store in a cool place. Monitor them occasionally and, if they begin to wrinkle, sprinkle them lightly with water.

For your gladiolus, simply clean and store them right-side up on open trays. Begonia bulbs can be stored in dry peat moss or vermiculite once they are cleaned, and cannas should be cleaned, dried and stored upside down in paper bags.

All bulbs should be stored at or near a temperature of 50 degrees.

"While planting and caring for spring bulbs may seem a daunting project to most amateur gardeners, it really doesn't take all that long," said Solver. "Investing a few hours' time this fall will reap months of beautiful blooms come spring."

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Trends bring change

If you follow small business issues, you know that businesses in most industries are rethinking how they operate. Small-business owners are facing hyper competition, exploding technology and customers with little allegiance. Success in the future will depend on how well they anticipate trends and make changes to capitalize on them.

Trends bring change, change causes discomfort and discomfort makes them want to resist change. It is a vicious little circle, and I often hear small-business owners complain about changes their competitors are forcing them to make.

Trends affect Fortune 500 companies, too. They also can find themselves losing market share and incurring operating losses just because they didn't react to the changing marketplace. Some recover, some merge and others liquidate assets for pennies on the dollar. Ultimately, consumers drive the process. Consumers choose value from their offerings, decide who prospers and who fails and directly or indirectly influence the trends.

Trends to watch

• Trend No. 1—Businesses are moving from slow and status quo to fast and flexible. Fast and flexible means anticipating your customer's needs and positioning your business to give them what they want, when, where, and how they want it.

Today's de-regulated banks are good examples of companies who were quick to jump on the fast and flexible bandwagon. You will find branches in malls and discount stores, and ATMs are everywhere. Boatmen's First National Bank in Amarillo, Texas even has a mobile branch in a beautifully restored double-decker bus. The bright red bus moves from location to location for the convenience of their customers.

• Trend No. 2—Successful businesses are moving from mass marketing to micro marketing. It may help to think of this concept in two ways. First, the micro marketer focuses on individual customers instead of "everybody." Second, micro marketing also describes the process of creating a niche within a niche.

The first concept might find a rental store focusing on small contractors rather than homeowners. Or, a women's wear shop zeroing in on plus-sized customers. Micro marketing narrows the number of customers you are targeting so you can serve them more effectively.

The second concept is the niche-within-a-niche idea. You might find a hardware retailer who sells outdoor power equipment—a niche—moving into rental of the same—a niche within a niche. Manufacturers like Nike and Reebok use the concept to convince us we need walking shoes for walking, running shoes for running and tennis shoes for tennis.

• Trend No. 3—Customers moving from "Wow" to worth. There was a time when customers would buy almost anything with "Wow." Sneakers with blinking lights, leather purses with little duck logos and cars with stripes, splashes and flames.

More customers today are evaluating the worth or value of the "Wow." Are sneakers with lights worth $20 more than the standard

Pleasant Company unique employer

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Pleasant Company was founded by a former elementary school teacher in 1986. Today, her company sends out 50 million catalogues, and in 1996 sales exceeded $257 million.

They sell dolls and books.

Actually, they sell doll characters and books of historical fiction that tell the story of each doll character. The newest character is Josefina Montoya™ and she is sold with an introductory hardcover book for $88.

These are award-winning products created by Pleasant T. Rowland and her company. As a teacher Rowland was very unhappy with the boring books she was given to use. Back in 1968 she would write her own supplemental materials to use in her classes. Eventually she would go to work for seven years as a vice-president of Boston Educational Research Company. Many of the educational materials Rowland developed at that time continue to be used in schools. Now she works for herself with, at times, 4,200 people helping to send out their products to children.

opened in Wilmot, Wisconsin on August 6 and it is expected to handle 23 percent of the telephone orders and 58 percent of their customer's packages. "This facility only carries 588 of our 2000 different items," said Mark

Guenther, Picking Supervisor at the Distribution Center. He said that 500 of the most popular items are sold from there. The company also has facilities in Middleton and Eau Claire, Wis., both of which are larger facilities. The Wilmot distribution center was created because of the company's growth at corporate headquarters in Middleton, where the products are also manufactured.

TCI to service US Cable customers

US Cable of Lake County has merged with the nation's leading cable television provider, TCI Communications, Inc. Customers in Waukegan and the greater Lake County area will now be served by TCI of Northeast Illinois.

"We are very excited about the recent merger with TCI," said TCI of Northeast Illinois General Manager Paul Ashley. "We will not only continue our fine tradition of providing the best in service and programming, but we will now be able to offer the latest technology to expand our channel lineup and enhance our picture quality."

US Cable of Lake County has been a part of the TCI family for several years. TCI has owned 51 percent of US Cable since 1988. The recent acquisition gives TCI 100 percent ownership of the Waukegan based system that provides service to 70,000 customers. Specifically, the merger involves cable service provided in North Chicago, Waukegan, Park City, Lindenhurst, Lake Villa, Antioch, Fox Lake, Gurnee, Green Oaks, Zion, Winthrop Harbor, Wadsworth, Third Lake, Beach Park, Lake Forest, Lake Bluff and some unincorporated areas of Lake County.

TCI Great Lakes Division Vice President Stephen Bryan whose office is based in Deerfield said, "We plan to continue being an integral and positive part of each of these communities. Our goals are to serve our communities with great cable service the is fairly priced and to provide the community with new products and services."

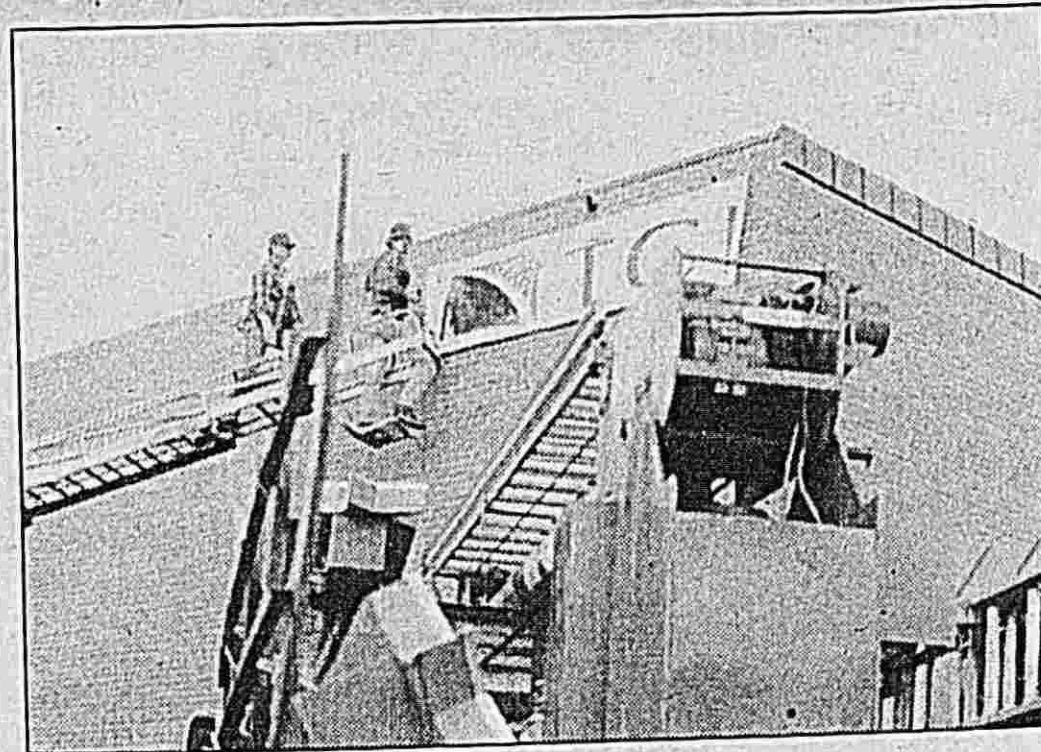

"TCI has a clear vision of how cable television can offer numerous services to customers," Ashley added, "and TCI is in a position to make that vision come true. You can rest assured that quality service will be a top priority for the TCI in this market."

Earlier this year, TCI launched three new services in its Arlington Heights test market: ALLtv-TCI's digital cable TV product, @Home-TCI's high-speed Internet service and Peoplelink TCI which is the company's local phone service. TCI plans to make the digital cable TV product available to Lake County customers in six to nine months.

TCI is the nation's largest cable television provider, serving approximately 14 million customers and employing 30,000 people in 48 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. TCI's corporate headquarters are in Englewood, Colorado.

Paul Ashley appointed general manager of TCI

Ashley: Named general manager of TCI

TIC of Northeast Illinois. The appointment was announced by Stephen Bryan, TCI Great Lakes Division vice president.

Ashley replaces Mitch Bland, who accepted a position with Post-

Network Cable in Phoenix, Ariz.

Ashley, who will continue to be based in TCI's Waukegan office, will be responsible for providing cable television service to 23,000 additional customers in Highland Park, Deerfield, Fort Sheridan, Glenview, Winnetka, Northbrook, Lincolnshire, Kenilworth, Bannockburn, Riverwoods and the unincorporated areas of Deerfield, Lake County and Lincolnshire.

Bryan said, "With his successful experience in serving the cable television needs to the 70,000 customers in the Waukegan/Lake County area, Paul has already demonstrated an ability to recognize the need for improvement in the Highland Park system and has put the wheels in motion to prepare that system for the latest telecommunications technology.

Ashley has been the general manager for US Cable of Lake County, now TCI of Northeast Illinois since October 1984. In this position, he has more than doubled the number of cable customers, created a three-hour window in which customers can expect service staff to install them with cable and is ahead of the industry with technological upgrades to the system. Ashley has also been named "Manager of the Year" for the past three years.

Before that, from December 1982 to October 1984, Ashley was the city manager for the Village of Lindenhurst.

Ashley came to Illinois from his home state of Michigan, where he was the city manager for the City of Bronson from August 1980 to November 1982. While serving in that role, he established redevelopment districts for the community allowing for redevelopment of new businesses.

From May 1997 to August 1980, he was the advisor on requirements of regulatory and grantor agencies for McNamee, Porter and Seeley Consulting Engineers.

A 1980 graduate of the Univ. of Michigan with a masters degree in urban planning, Ashley earlier received a fellowship in community leadership (1976-77) and a BS degree (1971) from the College of Great Falls in Great Falls, Montana.

Ashley lives in Antioch, with his wife Kristine.

Corporations give back to schools, communities with Market Day

While Market Day's popularity as a monthly fundraising program for schools is on the rise, so is the number of local corporations getting involved.

Market Day is partnering with corporations through a special program called Partnership In Education (PIE) to give businesses an opportunity to conduct Market Day sales at their facilities. A Market Day sale consists of employees receiving quality food products they previously ordered from Market Day at their place of business.

Profits from these orders are directed toward local schools designated by employees and/or charities designated by the participating company.

"Schools are not the only institutions benefiting from Market Day. Companies may choose to raise funds from their favorite charity each month, such as United Way and Easter Seals, while others accumulate the profits and send a large check to one worthwhile organization," according to Peg Majewski, manager of the PIE program. "In a way, everyone gets a piece of 'The Pie.'"

PIE was first developed in May, 1993 in response to officials from the State of Illinois encouraging businesses to become more involved with education by adopting local schools in their area. The PIE program serves two purposes: to give businesses and opportunity to help schools and charities in their community by donating profits from Market Day, and to provide a useful employee service with convenient food delivery and pick-up at the end of the business day.

Implementation of a Market Day program in the workplace is quite simple:

- Market Day provides order forms to the company.

- The company distributes order forms to their employees and provides a central collection area for the forms.

- The company mails order forms back to Market Day headquarters where each order is processed and fulfilled.

- Market Day delivers product to participating corporations.

- Market Day provides an account representative to run sale days and employees volunteer to help with set up and distribution of product.

- The actual sale takes about two hours of staff time.

"Our Market Day sales are morale boosters for our employees—but it's also an opportunity for employees to come together to create a sense of 'teamwork' as they make a difference in their community. Partnership In Education is a worthwhile program for our employees and community, and Safety-Kleen is proud to be a part of it," says Gail Kloepper, human resources representative for Safety-Kleen in Elgin.

Currently, there are over 60 companies throughout the Chicagoland area enrolled in the PIE program. This year alone, participation through businesses has generated over $18,000 in donations.

United Airlines' employees apply Market Day funds towards a non-profit organization they established called the Need Foundation.

This fundraising arm of United provides affordable in-home care to persons with disabilities and trains homeless people to be care-givers. United Airlines is able to help more people by directing a portion of their Market Day funds towards this foundation while also supporting the Muscular Dystrophy Assn. and local schools.

Another Chicago-based company, Ravenswood Hospital, is using Market Day money to set up a scholarship fund to provide childcare services for lower income employees. The hospital's Childcare Center was recently nominated for an award because of this service.

"Our employees look at Market Day as a benefit. They truly enjoy the convenience of having Market Day available to them right in our office. We list it as one of our benefits when we hire new employees," according to Noreen Riccio, Market Day chairperson for Videojet in Wood Dale, Ill.

Headquartered in Itasca, Market Day is the original food fundraising cooperative and has been in business for over 20 years.

Currently, Market Day offers more than 150 different food products each month. Everything from restaurant-quality, USDA choice meats, seafood and poultry to the popular French toast stix, desserts and quick family meals like Broccoli and Beef stir-fry, can be purchased at or below retail price. Market Day services over 5,000 schools and other community groups in 20 metropolitan areas in the United States.

For more information about the PIE program, call Peg Majewski at (630)350-0990, ext. 3507.

shoes? Is a little duck logo worth $75? Undoubtedly there will always be a market for "Wow." However, if you add practical worth to your "Wow," you'll find more customers to satisfy completely.

- Trend No. 4—A shift from people to power to technology. Computers and sophisticated software programs are making it possible to eliminate jobs. United States companies now use more than 50,000 high-tech robots to do work that people previously performed.

The robots work all three shifts without overtime, show up early and never go on strike. Other examples of this trend include: ATMs, pay-at-the-pump gas stations, computers that allow you to place your own fast food and TV check out at hotels. There is only one way to survive a changing business environment: Change. Look for trends and use your knowledge to make your offerings more pleasing to more customers.

PLEASANT: Company offers dolls with a history season is from November to Christmas. On their most intense day in December at Wilmet, they will ship 39,000 packages by United Parcel Service and they will receive 17,000 telephone calls. "This is state-of-the-art order processing equipment," said Julia Prohaske, the public relations manager. It would have to be. Prohaske said the company does 70 percent of their business in the last 3 months of the year. Although marketing is only done in the United States, they ship products to Canada, Switzerland, and military bases around the world. "Japan is very big," said Guenther. They do not sell products from their web page, www.americangirl.com, but people can order a catalogue from that site. The telephone is probably easier, 1-800-845-0005.

One of the features of the company's collection of products is the expression of racial and cultural diversity through historical periods. The character dolls, the books about their experiences, the accessories, the clothing for doll and live children, the CD-ROM, the American-Girls News newsletter, and the Bitty Baby® collection all reflect the experiences of dolls from different time periods and cultures. Felicity is from a colonial period, Kirsten is a pioneer girl, Addy is from the Civil War era, Samantha is a Victorian, and Molly was around in 1944. Josefina is the newest addition to the collection. "Her story takes place in 1824 in north New Mexico, just outside of Santa Fe. This is three years after the opening of the Santa Fe Trail," said Prohaske. "The story explores what life would have been like in a small village in the southwest as westward expansion brought Anglos and traders into that region of the country."

"Our goal is to celebrate girls of a variety of backgrounds and cultures," said Prohaske. She said the Pleasant Company would like to do the same with its own workforce. "It looks effortless in the catalogue and magazine," she said. "We like to reflect the individuality and diversity of American Girls," she said of their work place policies.

The full-time work force is roughly equally male and female, she said. "Order processing seems to attract a higher percentage of women because of a natural affinity for the product. People tell us that," Prohaske said. "Our workforce does generally reflect the make-up or diversity of the communities that we are in," she said. About 75 percent of the entire company is women.

"There really is an enormous amount for employees to learn," said Marcy McClain, Wilmet Human Resources Manager. Order takers especially have to know the story of each character as well as the details of their lives. The company tries to give their employees the tools necessary to keep up with a very knowledgeable customer base. The seven days of paid-training are a start.

As of mid-September, the company was still gearing up for the orders that are placed for the holiday season. Approximately 400 positions are still available in order processing and distribution," said McClain. There are two people to answer questions between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Interested employees can just walk in. The employment telephone is 414-862-7578. "We conduct interviews on the spot," said McClain.

Pleasant Company is a new and somewhat unique employer to the Illinois-Wisconsin border region. It seeks to provide quality toys with positive values for girls who are seven and older. The doll characters and their stories teach young girls American history and what it was like to be female during the past 225 years.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Consumers get what they pay for

"Free!" "No cost to you!" "Absolutely no charge!"

Most consumers realize that "free offers" eventually wind up costing them. Yet some mutual fund shoppers continue to confuse "no load" with "no cost." What's worse, they use this bargain promise as a criteria for selecting their funds.

Every mutual fund has costs. Although no-load funds may not charge an up-front fee, their annual expenses can have a significant negative impact on your return.

Most load funds compensate brokers by charging you a fee (load) when you make an investment or redeem shares, by paying fees to the broker every year, or by some combination of the two. These funds typically are priced to encourage long-term investing, which is what mutual fund investing should be. Mark Freeman, president of one of the largest fund families distributed exclusively by broker-dealers, says, "The longer you stay with us, the better off you are in terms of expenses." Freeman says his funds' investors stay an average of 13 years. Most financial advisers agree that after five years, any initial sales charge becomes insignificant.

If you're still concerned about that up-front load, there are ways to reduce it. Investors typically pay a maximum initial sales charge of 5.75 percent of their investment, but there are ways to pay less than the full sales charge:

- Concurrent purchases — Simultaneously purchasing shares in more than one fund within a family may qualify you for a quantity discount.

- Rights of accumulation — You can add the value of your present shares in a family of funds to the amount of any new purchase to qualify for a discount on your new investment.

- Statement of intention — Without obligation, you can establish a statement of intention that allows you to combine purchases you intend to make over a 13-month period with the value of your existing shares.

Annual expenses, on the other hand, should not be confused with sales charges. Mutual funds have ongoing annual expenses, just like any other business. These can be a drain on your fund's total return. You can find information about a fund's expenses in the condensed financial information of the prospectus or in the fund's annual report. It's generally described as the "ratio of expense to average net assets" and is listed for current and past years.

The average industry expense ratio for a growth fund is 1.46 percent as calculated by CDA/Wiesenberg. The average for a growth-and-income fund is 1.42 percent, and for taxable fixed-income funds, it is 1.19 percent.

These are industry guidelines. If you're considering a fund with a 2 percent expense ratio, which is quite common, look for that added expense to eat into your profits. For example, compare two funds. Fund A has a .05 percent annual expense, and Fund B's annual expense is 2 percent. Each earns a hypothetical 15 percent average compound total return over a five-year period. For a $10,000 investment, Fund A's expenses would be $365 over the period, but Fund B's would be $1,460.

Expenses come from your fund's income and profits, and if those aren't enough, your principal. They're an annual "deduction" from your fund's performance.

When looking at a mutual fund's costs, consider all costs before you decide. You may be surprised to find out just how much a "free lunch" costs.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

I received an interesting telephone call a few weeks back from the head of personnel of a local corporation who had tried his luck at trying to hire through the newspaper want ads. His idea was to have people send in their resumes. He would then filter through them to decide which of those candidates would be beneficial to meet and eligible to interview for the available position. What absolutely amazed him were not only the scores of resumes sent in, but the amount of resumes which were almost identical. As he put it, "I feel as though I am looking at clones from a bad sci-fi flick. Never before have I run across so many resumes with the identical objective, same format and layout."

I received his call for help when he said he realized the avenue he had chosen was not the way to go. After having ravaged through these piles of "canned resumes", the corporation made the decision to cast them aside with the feeling that these individuals were not showing any sense of individuality. "The only difference after a while, he said, were the names, dates and employers. How is an employer supposed to decide from clones?" My answer to him was simple. That is why there are employment services such as ours who eliminate the time taken to filter through the paper work...choose a few good candidates who will meet the needs through careful screening and present only those candidates who we feel will meet the requirements. The employer then is more at ease to meet with these individuals, make his own decision and the work is complete. If you are looking to put together a resume and planning to do it yourself, libraries and bookstores have books with sample resumes. They are great, but are not meant to copy word for word objectives, and such. Put effort into your objective, as well your duties and format. There are many print shops that will help you select a format and typesetting with moderate charges. If you choose a resume service, be sure that you work close with the person setting this up so they do not create the person you are not nor create a resume that is a format identical to the last 10 people who left their office. There are some job seekers out there with the belief that if you print your resume on hot pink stationery, or go for the bizarre, that it will attract any more attention. It may attract attention, however, it may not be the type of attention a more conservative person would look at twice. Keep in mind that "less is more." Go over your resume and make as many changes as you feel necessary until you are satisfied with the end product. Have someone else look it over. Bounce it off others and see if it is you. Keep your format conservative, not flamboyant. And most important...proofread your product before it goes to print!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

WILLOW

Ownership of a duplex can provide many benefits for those interested in acquiring and income property. Some may choose to reside in one unit, while renting the other. Another option is to rent both accommodations and manage the holding. Either way, it is a solid investment.

In any case, one of the more modern and innovative duplex plans to hit the market in quite a while, is the Willow. This two-story design has a 1170 square foot three bedroom configuration on side one. With unit two having 890 square feet, two second level bedrooms.

Both units have an attached garage that conveniently opens directly into the kitchen. This allows you, regardless of the weather, to unload groceries with a minimum of bother. There is space, in each garage to put a washer and dryer.

The master suite in unit one is a rarity in duplex design. Extending out from the right side of the building, with a view window to the front, the amenities here include a large sleeping area, walk-in closet and private entrance to the bathroom.

Both units have a spacious living room that flows unimpeded into the dining area. This creates a roominess that belies the square footage. The kitchen dimensions vary somewhat, but both allow easy serving and feature built-in appliances. Each dining room has a sliding glass door to the back patio. There is enough room here to relax in the sun with a barbecue and some lounge chairs.

The top level in both units holds two bedrooms, each with closet space. The front bedroom is somewhat larger. They share a corner bathroom fitted with linen storage.

For a study kit of the WILLOW (404-47LP60) or a Dream Home Book, send, $10.00 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (Specify plan name & number for kit). PET PARADE

Dr. Trask

Ask The Vet
Ask The Vet-Dr. David Trask is part of a group of northern Lake County veterinarians who pooled their money and expertise to start All Creatures Emergency Hospital in Grayslake providing emergency care to pets nights, weekends and holidays. During the day he can be reached at Lindenhurst Animal Hospital.

Question:
How do pets get fleas? What is the best way to get rid of them?

Answer:
The fleas live in the carpet, or the park or yard grass, or on an infested animal. Most of the time your pet passes through or near an area where fleas have not had a blood meal for a while and they are very hungry. The fleas sense your pet's movement, body heat, and carbon dioxide and hop on to eat.

PREVENTING fleas is the best and most cost effective treatment. There are several excellent flea preventatives available through your veterinarian. These new products are safe and easy to use. Depending on the product your veterinarian feels best for your specific pet and environment, they may only have to be applied to your pet every 2-4 weeks, your house every 4-6 months, and the outdoor area treated every 4-8 weeks. We like to start flea preventative in April or May when the weather breaks and warms to 65-70 degree temperatures which encourage their life cycle. We continue preventatives until it is frozen outdoors, usually occurring around Thanksgiving.

Question:
My dog barks when the doorbell rings. How do I get him to stop?

Answer:
Barking when an unusual sound is heard is a natural instinct for your pet. We feel this is something that most pet owners would NOT want to stop since this makes strangers aware that there is a pet guarding the home. If this is something that is very bothersome to you, then this natural response can be conditioned to be stopped, but it will be very time consuming because you are trying to break your pet of something that occurs naturally. Professional trainers can be very helpful in this situation. Desensitizing your pet to those sounds with prescription mood elevator medication may also be helpful.

"HEIDI"

"HEIDI" is a spayed female, brindle colored shepherd mix. Just three to four years old, Heidi has a short, dense, silky brown brindle coat dappled generously with red tinged highlights. A very small mid-size, Heidi has a terrific personality. She is incredibly sweet and affectionate, people oriented and friendly. Outgoing and playful, Heidi adores people, and thrives on attention and love. Very trainable, Heidi is bright and has an attentive, alert and responsive nature. If you are looking for a smart, easy going, loving dog, Heidi will easily and quickly win your heart. Heidi has been at Orphans since May 1996, and she is eager to share her love with someone special who will share their home with her. Heidi is in Cage 34.

ALL DOGS BENEFIT FROM BASIC HOUSEBREAKING AND OBEDIENCE TRAINING WHICH HELPS BOND DOG TO OWNER. CRATING IS RECOMMENDED THE FIRST YEAR WHEN THE OWNER IS AWAY, IF NEEDED.

Cash $55 donation includes free spay/neuter, collar, tag, leash, first shots, follow-up care and much more.

Orphans of the Storm is located at 2200 Riverwoods Rd., Deerfield. Hours are 11am-5pm, seven days a week. Call (847) 945-0235 for further information.

Thank you!!!
